Gun Play Marks Illinois Miners' Strike

EVERYONE IN VALLEY ASKED TO BIG PICNIC

Thursday, Sept. 1 Will Be Red Letter Day In Community

The monster Rock River Valley picnic to be held at Lowell Park, Thursday, September 1, is gaining popularity throughout northern Illinois as the plans are made known. The affair is sponsored by the Dixon Loyalty League and all of the committees are active and working to make the picnic the largest in the history of Dixon and vicinity. George Netiz is general chairman of all the committees.

Officially the picnic will start at 11:30 at which time it is expected that thousands of families will gather at Lowell park to enjoy their picnic dinner. The refreshment committee, composed of Harry Beard, chairman, Edward Hooker, James Cledon, Clair Beck, John Posselman, John Ortziessen, Harry Puffs, Robert Sterling, Frank Kreim and Elmer Jones, announces that coffee, sugar and cream will be furnished without cost. The picnicers, however, will be required to bring their own containers. There will also be an abundance of hot dogs during the afternoon. For the kiddies there will be ice cream cones, lolly-pops, balloons and other favors.

Program Of Sports

The entertainment and sports committee, of which Floyd Chapman and Joe Eichler are chairmen is composed of the following: Phil Raymond, Carl Newman, Joe Miller, Tom Burke, Bill Ford, Jim Balen, Ed Witzleb, Walter Cronwell, H. C. Pitney, L. G. Rorer, Roy Barham, George Bolet, William Stohower, Walter Knack, Dr. F. L. Hamilton, Dr. Hugh Burke and Dement Schuler, and has completed a program of sports and contests for which fine prizes will be awarded the winners. The program will provide entertainment for all ages and will be the largest ever staged in this locality.

Promptly at 12:30 Winfield H. Caslow, the Main Street Crusader of Chicago, will speak. His address will be carried through the public speaking system, which will be furnished by Chester Barriage, Mr. Caslow, now a national figure who has been heard by large Dixon gatherings, is one of the best drawing cards in the central west and will be welcomed by thousands who have heard his talks from station WJJD during the past two years.

Many Prizes Offered

At the close of his address, the sports committee will take over the program with a long bill of contests and games. Each event as it is called will be announced over the public address system. More than 100 prizes donated by Dixon independent merchants will be awarded the winners of the various events. Some of the events are horse shoe pitching contests, between farmers and Dixon merchants, greased pig, greased pole, pie and cracker eating contests, ball games, tug of war, three-legged race and water carnival contests.

Prize For Marriage

Prizes will also be given to the largest family attending the picnic the oldest man, the oldest woman, the youngest child, the oldest car, the family coming from the greatest distance. A special feature has been provided by the Melior Furniture Company which has announced a prize of a fine modern bed room suite to be presented to the first couple who register with the general chairman to be married at the picnic.

At 3 o'clock the award of the regular eleven monthly gifts, including the automobile, given by the Dixon independent merchants will be featured.

The finance committee, composed of Charles R. Leake, chairman, Frank Stephan, J. M. Brady reports sufficient finances to carry out all of the details of the picnic.

To Provide Transportation

The registration and transportation committee, composed of Frank C. Sproul, chairman, A. E. Marth, Byron LeFevre, Leo Miller, Arthur Miller, C. E. Mossholder, J. L. Glassburn, George Murray, E. J. Cunningham, Harry Jones and Claude Horton has arranged for three registration booths, the location of which will be announced later in these columns. Registrations will be received, beginning Monday, August 29, for all those who have no means of transportation and who are desirous of attending the picnic.

It is the desire of the general committee that all who can, provide food for one extra child or grown up, who will be supplied at the park before the dinner hour. It is the plan to provide a picnic dinner and ample entertainment for every child in Dixon and its trading territory who otherwise could not enjoy the outing. The picnic is not confined to

GEORGE BROOKS DIED AT EARLY HOUR THIS MORN

Former Prominent Lee County Farmer Is Now At Rest

George F. Brooks, prominent Lee county farmer, and well known through this section, passed away at 5 o'clock this morning at the family residence 214 Third street, his death ending an illness which extended over several months. He had been confined to his bed one week ago Sunday.

Mr. Brooks was born in Logan county, Illinois, April 25, 1865 and at the time of his passing was aged 67 years, three months and 23 days. For 30 years he followed the vocation of farming in Hamilton township and six years ago retired from active farming, moving with his family to Dixon.

During the past two years he had charge of swine department at the Dixon state hospital.

He is survived by his wife, and the following children: Roy of Dixon, Mrs. Agnes Perkins of Harrison, Miss Docia at home, Miss Lena of Chicago, Leon of Dixon, Ross of Chicago and Roy of Oregon. One son James preceded him in death in 1921. A brother, David Brooks of Bloomington also survives.

Mr. Brooks was prominent in Masonic lodge circles. He was a member of Walnut lodge, A. F. & M. and of Dixon Commandery, No. 21, Knights Templar. Funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Brinton Memorial Masonic temple, with interment at Greenwood.

CONWAY SOUGHT IN MANY OTHER PLACES TODAY

A Wheat Officer Was Here Today With Information

Sergeant Lyman of the Wheaton police department was in Dixon this morning conferring with Sheriff Fred Richardson. The visiting officer brought with him a Wheaton business man and another officer for the purpose of identifying George Conway who is a prisoner in the county jail. Conway is to be turned over to the Wheaton police after disposition of charges against him in Lee county.

According to the Wheaton police they have been seeking for Conway since early in 1931. From their records they have learned of several aliases he is said to have used throughout the central west during the past 12 years. Under the name of Morris R. Jacoby, it is said he was sentenced to term of one to ten years in the state penitentiary at Joliet from Kankakee, being received at the May 29, 1923, and paroled August 28, 1929, on a confidence game charge.

Under the name of George V. Coleman, alias George Conway, he was reported to have been charged with issuing a check to defraud and obtaining property by false pretenses, for which he is said to have been received at the Ohio state penitentiary April 21, 1922, and was conditionally released by Illinois authorities May 16, 1923.

According to records of the Fort Wayne police department, Conway, using the name of Walter B. Patterson, was arrested in that city December 14, 1919, on a charge of issuing fraudulent checks.

Sheriff Richardson this morning was in receipt of a communication from State's Attorney Carey Johnson of Princeton, stating that Conway's check operations had extended into Bureau county Monday afternoon DeKalb authorities were in Dixon checking up his alleged operations in that city a few days prior to his arrest at the home of his brother-in-law, Leonard Wixom, three miles north of Paw Paw.

Little Publicity For Lindy's Babe

Englewood, N. J., Aug. 17—(AP)—In an atmosphere of quiet and peace, the new son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh began his second day of life today.

In deference to the wishes of Col. Lindbergh, who said in a statement last night he desired as little public attention as possible centered on the baby born yesterday, the family was left in seclusion. No crowds assembled at the gate of the home of Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, where the child was born.

Friends seemed agreed that the baby would probably be named after his famous grandfather, the late Senator Dwight Morrow. No statement was forthcoming, but health of mother and child was believed to be good.

OFFICIAL OF BENTON LOCAL KILLED TODAY

Wife Of Miner Wounded By Deputy On Road At Taylorville

Benton, Ill., Aug. 17—(AP)—Joe Colbert, recording secretary of local miners' union No. 303 at Orient and chairman of the miners' protest meeting at Benid last Sunday was shot to death today by one of three men who drove up to his home, called him to their car and then drove away after firing at him with a shotgun.

Colbert was in his garden gathering mushrooms this morning when three men whose identity has not been learned drove up in a small automobile and called him to the fence of his yard. When he came to the fence he received a load of shot in his breast.

Accused Communist

Authorities here said that Colbert had been active in fighting the new wage scale for coal diggers and that he had been spreading "Communist" ideas. A case charging Colbert with drunkenness was pending in Benton City Court.

Colbert, 34 years old and married, was serving his third term as recording secretary of Local No. 303.

He had lost his left hand in a mine accident several years ago. Walter Colbert, the father, was taking a cow to pasture from their farm home on the outskirts of Orient, when his son left his task of gathering mushrooms to respond to a call from the trio in the car. The elder Colbert said he was too far away from the scene of the shooting to recognize the men.

Two men were in the front seat of the car and the third, who had occupied the rear seat, did the shooting, Walter Colbert said.

The body of the younger Colbert was taken to West Frankfort where an inquest will be held tomorrow.

WOMAN WOUNDED

Taylorville, Ill., Aug. 17—(AP)—Bonnie Vickory, a special Peabody Coal Company officer and Christian county Sheriff's deputy, was arrested today on charges of assault with intent to kill, growing out of the shooting and wounding of Mrs. Clyde E. Moses, wife of an Edinburg miner earlier in the day.

The warrant was issued on request of Moses, whose automobile was fired upon by deputies guarding Christian county highways against the threatened invasion of striking miners. Vickory was released on $2,000 bond furnished by W. C. Argus, District Commissioner for Menage to the Peabody Company.

Immediately afterward Moses was taken into custody on charges of resisting officers. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned and unable to furnish $500 bond, was lodged in the Christian county jail.

Child In Range

With their seven-year old daughter the Moses were returning from Springfield where Moses nightly attends a concession stand at an amusement park when the deputies attempted to stop their

SMITH REFUSES TO TELL IF HE PLANS SPEECHES

Also Declines To Say Anything About Garner Talk

New York, Aug. 17—(AP)—Expectation that James M. Cox will take the stump for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket was expressed today at Democratic headquarters.

Robert Jackson, chairman of the Speakers' Bureau, who described the former Governor of Ohio as "100 per cent in line," also said John W. Davis was favorably inclined toward making speeches for the ticket, but his activities depended on whether he can spare the time from his private affairs.

Meanwhile the question whether a third former Democratic candidate for the presidency, Alfred E. Smith, would take the stump, remained a mystery.

Speaker John N. Garner went back to Washington last night after a round of conferences here and in Albany which culminated in a visit with Smith in his skyscraper office.

When Smith emerged, he said: "About everything that took place with Mr. Garner, I have not a single word to say—not a single word."

"But will you speak for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket?" he was asked.

"That is the same question, put another way," he replied.

Cadet Ship Will Give Up Bodies

Kiel, Germany, Aug. 17—(AP)—The bulk of the naval training ship Niobe was dragged back to port today with the bodies of 69 cadets who perished when the ship foundered off the coast 22 days ago.

Like the Niobe of mythology, whose children went unburied for twelve days, the bulk lay under water here this morning. Divers hoped to reach the bodies and bring them ashore late today.

When all the bodies have been taken out, they will be buried with impressive ceremonies in a joint grave here.

The most tragic of the survivors represented is a widow whose son was one of those drowned. The boy's father lies in an unmarked grave in the North sea where a submarine went down during the World War. The mother attempted to commit suicide at the scene of the Niobe disaster, but was prevented.

Referee Of Fight Gets Suspension

Newark, N. J., Aug. 17—(AP)—Referee Joe Mongold, who gave the decision to Stanley Poreda in a ten-round bout with Primo Carnera last night today was suspended indefinitely by the New Jersey State Athletic Commission for what was termed an unpardonable decision.

"The decision given by Mongold was the worst I have ever seen," Commissioner George E. Kennan said in announcing the suspension. "He can't possibly have any excuse for his action, and I have decided to suspend him and keep him suspended until he learns how to judge a fight."

Most newspaper writers at the ringside saw Carnera the winner by a large margin.

Gov. Roosevelt Irked By Delays

Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y., Aug. 17—(AP)—Irked by John J. Curtin, counsel to Mayor Walker, Governor Roosevelt at today's session of the Walker ouster hearing declared he was "getting a little bit fed up" with arguments and threatened to "take charge" and speed up proceedings. Today was the fifth the hearing has been in progress.

A former assistant to Samuel Seabury, testifying at today's session hearing, said Charles Kerrigan, aid to Mayor Walker, told him "I know the Mayor did not expect you to find Sherwood." Russell T. Sherwood, missing accountant, handled $1,000,000 for Walker, Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter committee, holds.

Terse Items Of News Gathered In Dixon During Day

RECKLESS DRIVER

Adam Colombi of Grand Detour was arrested by Officer Pomeroy this morning and taken into police court was assessed a fine of $10 and costs on a reckless driving charge.

SUFFERED STROKE

Word has been received in Dixon that Hayer Carson of Iowa City, Ia., recently suffered a stroke. He is the husband of the former Lillie Little of Dixon, and both have many friends here.

LOYALTY LEAGUE TO MEET

The regular monthly meeting of the Dixon Loyalty League will be held this evening at 7:30 at the city hall. Business of importance will be transacted and a complete attendance of the membership has been solicited.

RABBIT BREEDERS MEET

The Rock River Rabbit & Fur Breeders Association will meet at 7:45 P. M. Friday at the home of Isaac La Gesse on Route 2. This is the regular monthly meeting and all members are urged to be present as there will be important business.

ENFORCE ORDINANCE

Members of the police department have been carrying on a campaign of enforcement of the city traffic ordinance pertaining to the carrying of passengers on running boards and more than three occupying the front seats. Several offenders have been arrested and fined during the past few days.

GARAGE RANSACKED

Thieves ransacked the automobile and garage of Frank Villiger at his home during the night, carrying away several gallons of gasoline which was siphoned from the tank of his car, airplane motor oil, aviators' suits and tools and a leather jacket. The robbery was reported to the Sheriff's office this morning.

RACES POSTPONED

Because of the condition of the track at the Amboy fair grounds, the result of last night's rain, it was necessary to postpone today's Derby Day race program, and it is announced the program will be put on Sunday afternoon. Tomorrow's race program of two trots, a pace and a running race, with a big dance in the evening, will be staged as planned.

SHORT COUNCIL SESSION

Ten retail milk dealers who dispense milk within the city limits of Dixon met last night's session. They have applied for and received licenses under the new city milk ordinance, the applications having been submitted to the city council at the regular weekly meeting last evening. Harry Fishback who petitioned the council for a license to operate a soft drink parlor was granted his permit. The council passed the regular semi-monthly bills and adjourned.

BABY BOY NEAR DEATH

George Phillips, Jr., six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips of Grand Detour, narrowly escaped being killed Sunday about 3 o'clock, while playing around a tractor and separator near his home. The little fellow is said to have run between the tractor and separator as they were being backed into a drive and to have fallen to the ground, one wheel of the heavy tractor passing over his left leg and fracturing the member. He was brought to the Dixon public hospital where his condition today was reported as very satisfactory.

Gov. Emmerson Has Appendicitis

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 17—(AP)—Following an attack of acute indigestion, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson has been confined to bed by his physicians, it was announced today at the Executive Mansion. The attack occurred late yesterday afternoon while Gov. Emmerson was working at his desk.

Medical assistance was summoned immediately and Gov. Emmerson was ordered to bed at once, where he has remained ever since. All appointments scheduled for this week have been cancelled at the direction of the attending physicians, who have advised him to take a complete rest for several days.

All Illinois Joins In Honor To Small At Kankakee Fair

Yesterday was Illinois Day at the Interstate Fair at Kankakee and the largest crowd ever known in Kankakee turned out in honor of Len Small, Secretary of the fair for many years, and the Republican candidate for Governor.

President Jeffers of the fair association reported that there were 100,000 people on the grounds. Great caravans of automobiles came from practically every county in the state, all carrying banners and posters announcing their faith and loyalty for Len Small for Governor.

Great crowds of enthusiastic Small boosters came from Chicago. It was noticeable that many Republican leaders who have been hostile to Len Small for many years were at Kankakee yesterday and climbed on the bang-wagon.

Salaries Lower, Policemen Quit

Murphyboro, Ill., Aug. 17—(AP)—This city hasn't any police force. All members of the department resigned rather than take a monthly reduction in salary of $25, voted by the city council.

Mayor I. W. Wells, who opposed the salary cut, said he would restore the police force the moment he felt the situation demanded it, regardless of the council.

Last year he visited the Yukon alone and next year he plans to go unaccompanied to the Belgian Congo in Africa.

The average elevation of the earth's surface above sea level is 2,900 feet.

STERLING MAN TO SOLICIT TO FINANCE STRIKE

Matt Grennan Is Appointed At Meeting Of Iowa Farmers

Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 17—(AP)—Guarded by special deputies but challenged by hundreds of aroused farmers, the few livestock truckers who braved gauntlets of pickets on all roads leading into Sioux City today were reaching the markets here.

Farmers who are participating in a farmers' holiday strike for higher prices for farm produce, Woodbury and Plymouth county milk producers involved in another dispute over milk prices, and peace authorities who seek to provide safe conduct for livestock truckers, however, had almost reached an impasse this noon.

Barricades continued on all highways, the picketers declaring their readiness to allow passage of all trucks laden with any produce except milk. Only a few producers, however, are now seeking to run the blockade.

Strikes Independent

Meanwhile conferees in the milk price dispute prepared to have another meeting this afternoon. Sioux City milk producers who seek higher prices declare their trouble in no way concerns the farmers' holiday, but there are pickets for both strikes.

Members of the Milk Producers Association declare that their fight is not connected with the selling strike being waged in other parts of Iowa and nearby states but it is difficult to distinguish the movements since pickets have been barring the paths of all highway shipments.

Some pickets have informed the sheriffs that they will allow livestock trucks to enter the city but intend to continue their fight to bar all others. The authorities answered with quiet statements that the blockade would be broken today and all trucks would go through.

Sterlingite Named

Meanwhile at Des Moines representatives of midwestern states who attended a meeting to formulate plans for spreading the farm holiday movement of the National Farmers Holiday Association returned to their homes prepared to encourage the strike.

Matt Grennan, Sterling, Ill., farmer, was appointed special representative to solicit financial and moral support and declared he will travel throughout the country speaking in behalf of the movement.

AT KANKAKEE

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 17—(AP)—Dealers in farm commodities said today there was no shortage of foodstuffs here despite a farmers' "strike" called in the Kankakee area Monday by the National Farmers Holiday Association.

Only about half the farmers in Kankakee county joined in the movement, it was reported, members of Farm Bureau organizations having refused to take part. Milk, vegetables, fruits, and other supplies were being hauled into the city as usual. There was no picketing or other attempts to halt trucking.

Kankakee has been designated as national headquarters of the Holiday Association.

Gov. Emmerson Has Appendicitis

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 17—(AP)—Following an attack of acute indigestion, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson has been confined to bed by his physicians, it was announced today at the Executive Mansion. The attack occurred late yesterday afternoon while Gov. Emmerson was working at his desk.

Medical assistance was summoned immediately and Gov. Emmerson was ordered to bed at once, where he has remained ever since. All appointments scheduled for this week have been cancelled at the direction of the attending physicians, who have advised him to take a complete rest for several days.

Boy Of 13 Is Now Real Globe Trotter

Chicago, Aug. 17—(AP)—At 13, Hartley DeGerald is something of a globe trotter.

He returned yesterday from a solo trip to the Fiji Islands, bringing a mummified cannibal's head as a present for his mother, Mrs. John DeGerald, wife of a banker.

Last year he visited the Yukon alone and next year he plans to go unaccompanied to the Belgian Congo in Africa.

STATE LEGION REFUTES MOVE AGAINST PRES.

Refuses To Criticize Use Of Troops To Quell Rioting

Danville, Ill., Aug. 17—(AP)—The Illinois Department of the American Legion has refused to criticize President Hoover's use of troops in ejecting the so-called bonus expeditionary force from Washington.

The Legion, concluding its annual convention here last night, rejected by a vote of 946 to 110 a minority resolution censoring the President's action.

The state department adopted resolutions advocating repeal of the 18th amendment and urging immediate payment of the veterans' adjusted compensation certificates.

James P. Ringling of Chicago was elected state Commander. Other officers named were: Charles C. Kapschull, Deerfield, Senior Vice Commander; Joe Delacour, Chicago, Commander First Division; Mancel Talcott, Waukegan, Commander Second Division; Homer Swope, Quincy, Commander Third Division; O. K. Yeager, Danville, Commander Fourth Division; William Austin, Effingham, Commander Fifth Division; the Rev. Percy Ray, Collinsville, Chaplain.

Mrs. Ada Muckelstone, Chicago, was elected president of the state auxiliary.

HOUSE CLERK'S LOYAL TO LEAD OF MR. GARNER

So He'll Make Public the Loans Made By R.F.C. When He Gets List

Washington, Aug. 17—(AP)—Contrary to the expectation of President Hoover, the Clerk of the House intends to make public the details of loans made by the Reconstruction Corporation since July 21.

The corporation's first report on the loans is due to be submitted to Congress this week. South Trimble, House Clerk, has written an eight-page brief giving his reason for interpreting the relief law as making publicity mandatory.

Trimble feels, as do Speaker Garner and Representative Rainey, Democratic leader, that he has no choice. He declares that further congressional action is necessary.

The publicity provision got the relief bill into a snarl that threatened to prevent adjournment. At the insistence of Garner and Rainey, the measure included instructions that monthly reports of loans should be transmitted to the Clerk of the House and the Secretary of the Senate.

Trimble's brief recalls that many reports submitted to him are made public, such as those of campaign expenditures; that the House last session directed that its payrolls should be open. It concedes that the publicity clause is not retroactive but that any interpretation of the language in view of the intent of Congress is that the loans must be made public.

Unless the House Clerk changes his mind or something else prevents, the public soon will have a peek at loans by the government to banks, railroads, insurance companies and other interests since July 21.

Oceanic Aviator Not Badly Hurt

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 17—(AP)—Entirely satisfactory progress toward recovery was being made today by Russell N. Boardman, trans-Atlantic flier, who crashed yesterday near Springfield airport just after he had taken off on a practice flight. There is no skull fracture and a kidney injury was reported mending. No bone fractures have appeared.

Whether Boardman will have recovered sufficiently to fly the Springfield Air Racing Association entry in the Thompson Trophy races at Cleveland early next month is not yet known.

Mrs. McCormick's Condition Better

Chicago, Aug. 17—(AP)—Physicians reported "no change" in Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick's condition today.

She appeared to retain the cheerfulness with which she received word of the arrival of her daughter, Mrs. Mathilde McCormick Oser, in New York yesterday from Europe, but friends found little basis for hope of her eventual recovery.

It was not known when Mr. and Mrs. Oser and their children would arrive from the east.

Hornets' nests are made from dry wood collected by the insects. The wood is chewed into a pulp and mixed with saliva.

MERCHANTS TO JOIN IN DRIVE FOR GOOD TIMES

An Unprecedented Drive To Give Shoppers Greatest Chance

Friday and Saturday of this week will doubtless be the two greatest days in the history of Dixon's retail establishments, for in arranging for their annual fall Dollar Day, the merchants have taken especial consideration of conditions—with prospects of a gradual increase in costs of all commodities and merchandise in the very near future—and have determined to do more than ever before in giving the people in Dixon's trading territory the advantage of the rock-bottom prices at which current stocks have been purchased—prices which it is probable none of the present generation will ever again see duplicated.

To provide an added stimulus to the usual fine trade which always attends any Dollar Day sponsored by Dixon merchants, a lot of business men have deliberately cut the price on every article in every store to the very quick in order to transfer stock into money and to hasten the return of better times to this community.

Every Price Slashed

In every store the slashing of prices is general, applying to every article in stock and not to certain special lines. Of course there are some things that will be sold at cost or less, but the profit of every article in every store has been beyond any cut local merchants have made before.

And to accommodate all the shoppers in the Dixon trading area, many of whom on former single Dollar Days have been unable to take advantage of Dixon's famous bargains, the local merchants have decided to offer their 1932 fall opportunities on two days, Friday and Saturday, instead of on Saturday only.

Message to 10,000 Homes

Stocks are full and complete so there will be no opportunity for shoppers to get their choice on either of the two days. The merchandise offered by the merchants whose advertisements appear in this issue of The Telegraph is all new stock, guaranteed to be as represented and the biggest value ever offered by the participating retailers.

The message of the Dixon business men participation in Friday and Saturday's carnival of bargain is being carried by the Telegraph into 10,000 homes in Dixon trading territory today—and the result will certainly be two of the greatest trading days in all of Dixon's wonderfully successful merchandising history.

Thirty people will read the advertisements in this issue of The Telegraph carefully, check their needs and desires, and come to Dixon on Friday or Saturday to take advantage of the Dixon merchants' contribution toward the return of better times to this community.

Zigler Acquitted By Ogle Co. Jury

Marcus C. Zigler, Palmyra township farmer, who was accused by Mrs. Edith Bridgeman of injuring her hand with a pitchfork in an argument over a hedge, was found not guilty and freed of all charges yesterday in a jury trial in Oregon before Police Magistrate C. F. Mammanna.

Mr. Zigler established the fact that the hedge he was trimming was on his own property and the jury found that he was fully within his rights in the matter. Mrs. Bridgeman had a minor wound on her hand but could not establish whether it was caused by the fork. Mr. Zigler was working with or by a thorn or something in the hedge.

Mr. Zigler, while living in Lee County, has land that reaches over into Ogle County and the hedge in question is in the latter county and the argument took place there. Mr. Zigler was represented by Atty. H. A. Brooks of Dixon.

DIXON MILK PRICE

From Aug. 16 until further notice the Borden Company will pay 95¢ per cwt. for milk testing four per cent butter fat, direct ratio.

automobile and question them. The officers fired and buckshot grazed the forehead and arms of Mrs. Moses, narrowly missing her husband and daughter.

Moses had been working in mine No. 9 of the Peabody Coal Company at Langley since the new $5 wage scale contract was signed. Peabody officials credited him with attempting to persuade the miners to join the striking movement yesterday.

Said He Didn't See

Moses, however, denied any connection with the strike movement. He was sleepy, he said, and failed to see the red lantern which the deputies declared they waved at him.

Active picketing of Christian county mines near the Sangamon county line was started this morning and 100 miners from Pawnee, Missouri and Auburn were stopped at Pawnee and persuaded to go home by an auto load of strikers. Pawnee is just outside the Christian county line.

State Highway Policeman Fred Neuchols of Auburn dispersed the miners, who had gathered in front of the Pawnee high school. He offered to escort any miners willing to go to work to the mine but only one digger accepted the offer.

Pickets Arrested

Ray Tombozzi was arrested at Taylorville today and authorities accused him of attempting to picket Peabody mine No. 58. He was held on open charges.

All four Peabody mines in Christian county continued to work at capacity. Authorities announced the scheduled "march on Taylorville" of striking miners tomorrow would be met with stiff resistance. More men were to be deputized today.

One hundred pickets succeeded today in preventing resumption of operations at the New Stanton Coal Company mine at Livingston in Madison county. The mine had been working under the old scale of $6.10 and last night whistles blew for resumption under the new contract.

LEWIS IN APPEAL

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers of America, called on the miners of Springfield today to abandon their scheduled "march on Taylorville" and described the plan as "naïve" and representing "the height of stupidity and folly."

"The mine workers of Springfield and central Illinois," Lewis declared in a formal statement, "may as well recognize that the marching expeditions and mass meetings will not destroy the contract which has been executed between the Illinois Coal Operators Association and the United Mine Workers of America."

Springfield and Sangamon county authorities, Lewis asserted, would be justified in forbidding the scheduled assemblage of miners here tomorrow noon for the publicly announced purpose of invading Christian county.

"Surely," he said, "no miner is so ignorant as to believe that the peace officers and citizens of Christian county will permit their county to be overrun by a mob led by a small group of short-sighted and irresponsible individuals."

Declaring that many cases of "extreme poverty and destitution" existed in Sangamon county and could be alleviated by a return to work of the miners, Lewis called on women of suffering families to intervene "and compel their timid breadwinners to accept employment offered them in the mines."

NOTICE

Compare the Telegraph with other papers you read—your conclusion will be that Dixon and Lee county readers are given a newspaper far above the average. Last year the University of Illinois voted the Dixon Telegraph the best paper in the state of towns with over 10,000 population.

Brief Items Of News From Dixon State Hospital

Two baseball games furnished entertainment at the amusement park for several hundred patients and employees over the week end.

The Lee Center team took the field against the institution nine Saturday afternoon in a game which was marked by heavy hitting and many runs and resulted in a victory for the institution by a score of 19 to 11. Sunday afternoon the two team met again and played three innings, when the game was called. The count being 4 to 4. "Bud" Rink and "Shirley" Miller of Dixon assisted the institution team in Saturday afternoon's contest.

Harold Fuller, one of the old faithfuls at the institution paid his first visit to Dixon in three months when he took a few hours leave to attend to business matters in the city.

Employees or patients at the institution wishing to subscribe for the Telegraph may call Dixon, No. 5. The paper will be delivered to the institution each evening, being brought out by the express truck.

J. F. Shureman, reimbursing investigator, who has been at the institution on state business, left this morning for his home at Springfield.

The golf course is in much better condition after the rain and is a source of much pleasure and interest to the employees, many of whom are developing into very efficient exponents of the game.

A concert by the institution band Monday evening furnished entertainment for both employees and patients.

Mrs. Warren G. Murray spent Tuesday visiting friends in Moline.

Malow Reed, night watchman is spending his vacation visiting relatives at Marion, Ill.

The institution employees and patients are mourning the loss of George Brooks, well known resident of Dixon, who passed away early this morning at his home. Mr. Brooks for some time had charge of the swine at the institution farms.

J. P. McIntyre was busy Tuesday making his regular weekly collection of magazines and periodicals which he so generously donated by the citizens of Dixon and vicinity to the patients at the institution.

"Mac" who is the genial chauffeur for the institution has taken up golf in a very serious way and finds it a pleasant and interesting pastime, during his leisure hours.

Abuse of Ward's Property

On October 11, 1932 a twenty-five-year-old Chicago woman was committed to the Chicago State hospital, upon application of her husband. On March 16, 1932, she was transferred to the Peoria state hospital, and on March 9, 1932 she was again transferred, this time to the Dixon State hospital. Her condition is such that she will spend the balance of her life in a state institution.

At the time of her commitment this woman was the owner of some residence property in Chicago, which was rented to her husband collecting the rent and using it himself, not even furnishing clothing for his wife at the Dixon hospital, as he should have done under the law.

A representative of the Department of Public Welfare started an investigation in an effort to compel the husband to at least furnish the necessary clothing for his unfortunate wife, and perhaps a little money for the purchase of occasional luxuries. The husband refused to even acknowledge the receipt of the several letters sent him. The investigation was continued and the fact developed that he had married another woman in Chicago in December, 1931, and was living with her, using the proceeds of his legal wife's property to help support his bigamous wife.

After securing the facts in the case, the matter was reported to the Cook County State Attorney, the man was arrested, indicted for bigamy, and placed under a $2,500 bond to guarantee his appearance in court when the case comes up for trial. The penalty for this crime is imprisonment for not less than one, nor more than five years and a fine not exceeding $1,000.

From this date on prices have been arranged on Half Sales and Heels to fit the pocket-book of everyone.

DONATIONS TO PANTRY SHOW FINE INTEREST

There's Still Need Of More Foodstuff And Volunteers, Too

Leon Hart, president of the Lee County Farm Bureau, sent into Paul Rader's Pantry a big load of corn yesterday to be canned for Lee County's unemployed this winter.

Mr. Hart in addition to this substantial donation, has been operating 100 per cent with the officials of the pantry, giving his time and influence to the fullest extent.

The canners started to work at 6:30 this morning and Mrs. Louis Leydig, who is heading the women's committee, declared this morning "a thousand cans today."

Mrs. Leydig reported to the Telegraph office this morning the progress of the work at the pantry.

Quite a variety has been canned to date as follows:

Apples, sauer kraut, beans, tomatoes, spinach, beets, mixed vegetables for soup, corn, carrots, and chicken.

The public is cordially invited to visit the pantry at any time, preferably between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m., the working hours.

Last minute notice before going to press gives information of one big truck load of corn from J. W. Cortwright, and a quantity of apples from Ed Schick both of the South Dixon Farm Bureau, No. 2.

Another last minute piece of information announces the receipt of five hundred heads of cabbage and a quantity of tomatoes from Academy Place Dixon. Anyone having produce to offer, please call phone 183 or take to the Assembly Park hotel. Mrs. Leydig asks for more volunteer workers to phone 1319.

The Paul Revere of 1812

THE happy chance of having a poem written about his ride has made the name of Paul Revere immortal in American history. Few have ever heard of Billy Phillips, of his marvelous ride of 800 miles in nine days and of his cry of alarm, "War! War with England!"

Billy Phillips was a jockey, a little chap who had ridden Truxton, a race horse, owned by a lawyer named Andrew Jackson in Nashville, Tenn., to victory in the most noted race ever run in the old Southwest.

In June, 1812, Billy was visiting in Washington, D. C. On the first of that month President James Madison sent to congress his message telling of British aggressions upon our rights.

On June 12 Billy Phillips started for his home in Nashville. War was not officially declared until the 18th, but it was a foregone conclusion that congress would take that action. There were no telegraph or telephone lines in those days and the only means of communication was by express couriers. A dozen of them set out on fast horses an hour after congress had passed the war resolutions and the President had signed them. But Billy Phillips was already on his way carrying his message through a country where he knew it would be received with enthusiasm.

From Washington to Richmond he rode, to Hillsboro and Salisbury and Morgantown, and as he sped through the scattered towns of the wilderness country, past inn or tavern, he swung above his head his wallet containing the momentous news and shouted "War! War with England! Wake up! War to the finish." He had left Washington at nightfall on June 12. On June 15, as he afterward told it, he "tore through Lexington, N. C. like a streak of greased lightning and on the 21st I tore into Nashville, still greased and going strong."

He had traveled 800 miles in nine days—96 miles for every 24 hours! Historian John Trotwood Moore has said "his ride in daylight and in dark, over mountain, across gravelly valleys, through swamps and dense woods, across creeks, rivers and miry morasses with such sleep as he got, surpassed the heroic and borders on the wonderful." (© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

"I rather like that young fellow you were with the other evening, so I asked him to dinner tonight. I told him he needn't dress—he could come along in his business clothes." "Father! He's a swimming instructor!"—Der Goetz.

"Goat Gables" Deserted as Two Face Murder Trial

In the ramshackle old home above, once the show place of Natchez, Miss., Richard Dana, 61-year-old eccentric, led a life of seclusion with his housekeeper and former sweetheart, Miss Octavia Dockrey, 60, until they were arrested for the murder of Miss Jane Surget Merrill, 72, another recluse who once was a famous Mississippi beauty. On the porch is seen Dana's old buggy, the tracks of which leading to Miss Merrill's neighboring estate, offered some of the first clues in the slaying which is said to have resulted from the trespassing of Miss Merrill's goats on the Dana property in the center below is Deputy Sheriff George Allen with bloodhounds which led authorities on a dozen false trails after the murder. Miss Dockrey, left, daughter of a Confederate general, and Dana, right, nephew of Charles A. Dana, famous editor, are held in jail at Natchez.

WORLD WAR

BY "YARNS"
LIEUT. FRANK E. HAGAN

Winning the "Cigar Lighter"

One of those outfits whose duties forbade the privilege of whanging back at the enemy with bullet or shell was the first A. E. F. unit to win the French fourragere, a decoration more commonly referred to as a "cigar lighter." This group was originally Section Sanitaire Americaine No. 5 which later became S. S. 646, U. S. A. S.—a plainer English, an ambulance unit.

The organization was made possible through the use of American loan borrowed automobiles for transporting wounded from the field in the early days of the war. Two citations are necessary before the "cigar lighter" may be worn. Section 5 won the first of these a year before we entered the conflict, it being awarded April 1, 1916, for 11 days' evacuation of wounded in a particularly hot zone of the Verdun struggle. The second citation, also the fourragere, came November 30, 1917.

for service during a daring French stroke along the famous "Ladie Road," Chemin des Dames.

A part of the citation on this occasion is in appreciation of heroic services by a unit which does not fight. And it mentions that the award was conferred by the French government for "the richest sense of duty. It assured in a minority of time, despite great material difficulties, the evacuation of all the wounded of its division over roads hardly practicable and under a violent bombardment." (© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Be Sure You Are Getting PASTEURIZED MILK

Pasteurization at from 142 degrees to 145 degrees F. for 30 minutes, assures your protection against disease-producing bacteria . . . such as tuberculosis, typhoid, diphtheria, etc. Pasteurization is necessary—because apparent cleanliness is not enough! Disease bacteria can be introduced by unknowing disease carriers, no matter how careful they think they are. Only pasteurization is the certain enemy of milk borne disease. YOU ARE GETTING PASTEURIZED MILK WHEN YOU GET MILK FROM US.

SUPT. MILLER COMMISSIONER AT BOYS' SCHOOL

In Charge Of Youths Of Thirteenth Dist.
At Springfield

Springfield, Ill. (AP)—The commission in charge of the twenty-third annual Illinois State Fair School for Boys, headed by Francis B. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction, today announced the staff officers who will conduct this institution. W. S. Booth, of Springfield, assistant superintendent of public instruction, will again serve as principal of the school. He is to have as his assistant, A. E. Gilpin of Cetraria; A. W. Nolan of the University of Illinois; and J. E. Hill, state supervisor of agricultural education.

C. E. Black, the adjutant general of the Illinois National Guard is to assign military officers to the school to be in direct charge of the students enrolled from their respective congressional districts—all county superintendents of schools have been selected as follows:

First to tenth district—W. C. Petty of Waukegan, Lake County. Eleventh district—E. E. McCo of Geneva, Kane county. Twelfth district—Warren Hubbard, Sycamore, DeKalb county. Thirteenth district—L. W. Miller, Dixon, Lee county.

Fourteenth district—Justin Washburn, Rock Island county.

Fifteenth district—Orval Briggs, Rushville, Schuyler county.

Sixteenth district—T. T. Stateler, Lacon, Marshall county.

Seventeenth district—W. B. Brigham, Bloomington, McLean county.

Eighteenth district—Arthur C. Foster, Paris, Edgar county.

Twentieth district—Homer L. Johnson, Pittsfield, Pike county.

Twenty-first district—Cloyd Wright, Taylorville, Christian county.

Twenty-second district—C. A. Reeder, Nashville, Washington county.

Twenty-third district—H. E. Puntney, Carmi, White county.

Twenty-fourth district—R. O. Finley, Chester, Randolph county.

Members of the commission, in addition to the president, are W. Munford, dean of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois; Walter E. Buck, of Virginia, superintendent of Cass county school; Harry Wilson, of Pinckneyville, president of the Illinois Farmers' Institute; and Wilton E. Jones, general manager of the Illinois State Fair.

Wolves in India

Although the wolf is common in Arctic regions all around the world, it is also found in the intensely hot desert regions of India. This wolf of the Indian desert is considerably smaller than the great northern wolves and does not have as heavy a coat, lacking the inner fur entirely.

Traveling Around America

SEA-GOING JUNIORS

IN this modern age whenever children desire to go cruising with their parents, they expect to be royally entertained; and "royal" is the only word that will describe this kiddies' party on board the Grace Line's "Santa Clara." Naturally if children forego the joys of camp life, or the comforts of their nurseries, and forgo their pets and playmates, they insist upon satisfactory substitutes. Modern liners nowadays are equipped to show even the most sophisticated young sea-goers the time of their young lives. There are playrooms provided with everything from sand boxes to doll houses; and a play-director is in charge to see that there is never a dull moment. Special diet formulas are skillfully prepared by a dietician and served by stewardesses trained in the care of children.

On the four new $5,000,000 "Santa" ships now under construction for the Grace Line's New York-Panama-Central America-California Service, the dining rooms where children assemble for their meals are provided with specially constructed tables that may be raised, or lowered, at will. It is a happy arrangement—for the older children are not embarrassed by having to dine at "baby" tables, and the infants are not subjected to the indignities of dictionaries. In fact modern ships are so well equipped to take care of junior sea-goers that many children have crossed the ocean unaccompanied by parents or friends.

WORLD WAR BY "YARNS" LIEUT. FRANK E. HAGAN

Winning the "Cigar Lighter"

One of those outfits whose duties include the privilege of whanging back at the enemy with bullet or shell was the first A. E. F. unit to win the French fourragere, a decoration more commonly referred to as a "cigar lighter." This group was originally Section Sanitary American No. 5 which later became S. S. 646, U. S. A. A. S.—a platoon English, an ambulance unit.

The organization was made possible through the use of American to man borrowed automobiles for transporting wounded from the field in the early days of the war.

Two citations are necessary before the "cigar lighter" may be worn. Section 5 won the first of these a year before we entered the conflict, it being awarded April 7, 1918, for 11 days' evacuation of wounded in a particularly hot zone of the Verdun struggle.

The second citation, also the fourragere, came November 30, 1917, for service during a daring French stroke along the famous "Lad Road." Chemin des Dames.

A part of the citation on this occasion is in appreciation of heroic services by a unit which does not fight. And it mentions that the award was conferred by the French government for "the richest sense of duty. It assured in a minimum of time, despite great material difficulties, the evacuation of all the wounded of its division over road hardly practicable and under a violent bombardment."

A STORY STRANGER THAN FICTION.

The truth is not only stranger than fiction, now and then; it is often a whole lot more interesting.

Novelists have written until their hands were cramped, trying to spin tales of eerie horror; but did they ever invent anything to beat that recent story from Natchez, Miss., about the filing of murder charges against Miss Octavia Dockrey and Richard Dana?

Consider the elements of this story. First there were these two ancient estates, Glen Burne, home of Miss Jane Merrill, who was slain, and Glenwood, adjoining it, home of Dana.

Once these were famous southern plantations. Now they are dilapidated, unkempt, weed-grown, their fine manor houses grown decrepit and gloomy, their imposing driveways bordered with rank grasses and undergrowth.

And the people themselves had trodden the same path. Forty years ago Miss Merrill, daughter of a former ambassador and one-time "belle of the south," had wealth, position and fame. So did Miss Dockrey, daughter of a Confederate general, and Dana, nephew of the famous New York editor.

Typical of the finest culture of the south were these people and their homes—a generation ago.

But something went wrong, somewhere. Heaven only knows what it may have been; but it seems clear that these three people became three dour and suspicious recluses, eccentric, grim-lipped, mysterious. The gay old culture departed from their pillared mansions; and when the murder was being investigated neighbors told the officers that there had been enmity between Miss Merrill and Dana because of an argument over some goats and pigs which Dana owned!

And the picture of the murder, as sketched by the sheriff, adds the final touch; two people entering a decaying mansion, one holding an oil lamp while the other levelled a gun to kill the aged woman who was once the belle of the south.

Could a novelist have invented a more fascinating hair-raising tale of decay and morbid gloom than this one from real life!

PINCHOT'S HUMAN MOVE.

There is an especial obligation on public officials these days, especially on the lesser ones, to realize that times are not normal and that the letter of the law may have to be stretched every so often to avoid working an injustice.

A fine example is contained in that case at Uniontown, Pa., where a mother was sentenced to 20 days in jail for killing a woodpecker to get food for her hungry family.

Fortunately Governor Pinchot heard about it, paid her fine and ordered her release. But it seems odd that the local officials made such a step necessary. To violate the state game laws is forbidden, of course; but no official with any sense of the fitness of things could have thought that this woman really deserved to be sent to jail.

PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

The forest fire season is at hand again, and a little bulletin from the American Tree Association points out that the danger this year is especially acute on account of the unemployment situation.

Strange as it may seem, there are innumerable cases being recorded in which jobless men purposely started forest fires—because, when such fires occur, the unemployed usually get a few days work fighting them. The smallest state in the union, Rhode Island, has already had 321 forest fires this year, and authorities state that many of them were undoubtedly of incendiary origin. What the situation must be in the heavily timbered western states is obvious.

The American Tree Association remarks that large grants of federal funds to the states for the purpose of hiring men to fight forest fires may only make a bad situation worse. It suggests that the money be spent instead on preventive measures, to keep the fires from getting started in the first place—and the suggestion looks like a good one.

I was so nervous and excited and hopeful of winning inside that it made me sort of dead on the outside.—Georgia Coleman, Olympic diving champion, after winning.

The trouble is, as they say, that the English do not know when they are beaten; and are sometimes so stupid to be proud of the fact.—G. K. Chesterton British writer.

I believe that nothing is apt to spoil a woman's character more than a complete dependence upon her husband in money matters.—Vicki Baum novelist.

To me, woman is life's greatest pleasure—and my greatest worry!—Emir Abdullah of Transjordan.

COMPTON NEWS

By LESLIE G. ARCHER
COMPTON—The Compton Women's club flower show on Friday, August 19th, at the high school auditorium from 1:00 to 11 P. M. This show is not limited to the Women's club members. All who are interested in flowers are invited and urged to attend. Prizes and ribbons will be awarded for first and second.

Refreshments and candy booths will be provided and a musical entertainment will be given in the evening. There will be no admission charges.

Rules for exhibitors—All entries must be in by 11:00 A. M. on Friday August 19th, and can be made on Thursday afternoon and evening and may be removed after 10:00 P. M. Friday. Exhibitors are entitled to as many entries as desired and must furnish containers and be responsible for the same.

According to advance reports, F. M. Vocum, of West Brooklyn, widely known for his keen interest and knowledge of flowers will be present with several displays. Also Mrs. W. N. Hills has entered her dahlias that took second in the Women's club flower show at La Moille a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gilmore has returned to Compton to visit his brothers, Fred and Arlo Gilmore, after an absence from here over twenty years. Harry Gilmore had lived at Glendale, Arizona up to a year ago, when he moved to California.

Mrs. Lloyd McDougall entertained at three tables of bridge at her home on Thursday afternoon of the past week. Prizes were awarded to the winners—first, Mrs. Mary Carnahan; 2nd, Mrs. Helen Gilmore; and consolation, Mrs. Maxine Gilmore. The hostess served a delicious 5 o'clock luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ransom and children of Montello, Wis., are here spending their vacation with Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Miller and other relatives.

Gene Signs for Campaign Scraps

Gene Tunney, the former heavyweight champ, is back in training for another barnstorming tour. But this time it will be for politics, not athletics, for Gene will campaign for Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt in the presidential race. Here he is, left, conferring with his new "manager"—James A. Farley, national Democratic chairman—in the party's headquarters in New York.

Worried? Not Jimmy and the Mrs.

It was an apparently unworried Jimmy Walker and a smiling Mrs. Walker whom the cameraman found, as shown here, at Albany, N. Y., shortly before they went to the State Capital and Walker answered charges seeking his removal as mayor of New York.

MAYTOWN

By A. McFadden
Maytown — Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Scott and Miss Mary Kelley of Chicago spent the week-end here at the Thom's McGovern home.

Mrs. Harkins and daughter Marie and son Charlie of Chicago spent the week-end here at the L. J. Carrington and Frank Murphy homes. Plans are under way for the big Labor Day picnic. A bigger celebration than ever is planned for this year. Preparations are in progress to care for more than a care for more than a thousand at chicken dinner and supper. There will also be the regular amusements. Efforts are being made to have two of the best ball games, matching the strongest teams possible. For the dance in the evening an orchestra, which is very popular with the dancers is being secured. Labor Day accord — to a tradition of many years is a day when everyone forgets his cares and takes a part in a day long celebration. Come to Maytown for a good time on Sept. 5th.

Charlie Montavon of Portsmouth, Ohio, is here visiting at the A. H. Montavon home.

Threshing is about done in this locality.

Agnes and Nellie McDermott of Freeport are visiting relatives here. Frank Faivre is on the sick list. Dr. E. A. Sullivan of Amboy was a professional caller here Monday.

STORY BY HAI COCHRAN PICTURES BY JOE KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

All through the night the Tinymites slept, while one kind little monkey kept watch over every one of them until the break of dawn.

And then it scrambled from the hut to go and find a coconut. When Scouty woke up he exclaimed, "Our little monkey's gone."

"I hope it doesn't go too far and simply leave us where we are. We may not be so welcome all alone in Monkey Land."

"But, come, let's jump up to our feet and fix our grass beds nice and neat. We'll have our hut slicked up real soon if each one lends a hand."

All of the Tinymites worked away until they heard wee Windy say, "We've finished here, so now let's go and find some food to eat."

"I do not know what it will be, but anything appeals to me. I am so hungry I can hardly stand upon my feet."

Just then as quiet as a mouse, the monkey, entered their grass house. It startled all the Tinymites when it chattered long and loud, "Geet look!" said Copy. "What a treat. It's brought us some fine food to eat." The monkey had dainties cocoanuts for each one in the crowd.

"This makes a breakfast for a king," said Copy. "I could fairly sing. There's milk in every cocoanut, as sweet as it can be."

"Let's take our time and each eat one. I think it will be lots of fun. Then we will go outside our house and see what we can see."

When they had finished with their meal, wee Duncy said, "How good I feel! And then he led the bunch outdoors and shouted, "Geet! What luck." A monkey cart was just outside and Duncy promptly got a ride. The lad was tossed around a bit, but to the seat he stuck.

"Duncy is arrested for speeding in the next story."

CORN PROSPECT IN STATE BEST SINCE YEAR '13

The State Statistician's Report Optimistic
For Fall Crop

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17—(AP)— Corn prospects in Illinois are the best since 1913.

This estimate of the crop was made here by A. J. Suratt, senior agricultural statistician, based on the August 1st survey of the Illinois and Federal Departments of Agriculture.

"Oats, soybeans, tame hay and broomcorn," Mr. Suratt added
"are up to the average or better.
Other crops mostly rate from near average downward."

"Threshing of winter wheat is practically completed and well advanced for other grains. State winter wheat yield per acre is 15 bushels. Pastures are short generally.
Excepting a light crop of apples, tree fruits do not amount to much.

"All crop conditions, including gardens, are more uneven than a month ago due to heat and varying drought during July. Early August rains will be beneficial to grass and all late crops, also for plowing operations. Rains were especially needed in southern Illinois where much of the upland corn was badly fired and pastures about gone. Crop conditions improve northward with the best general prospects now located in the northern half of the state. The crop situation in the northwestern area is very favorable. This area and most of the upper third of the state has been more favored all through the season with better soil moisture than any other extensive area.

"In a general way crop conditions range from very favorable in the north to fair to favorable in the central area and poor to fair in the south. During the first ten days of July corn made excellent gains under ideal weather conditions. This was followed by two weeks of drought and heat.

"Early July improvement to the corn crop was either offset or nearly so in the central and northern areas and the crop considerably damaged during this period in the southern area. Owing to unusually study and advanced growth following earlier favorable conditions for corn, this crop has withstood drought and heat remarkably well.

"Corn is about ten days ahead of usual with much of the crop now in the roasting ear stage. Stands are tall and heavy, especially in the upper two-thirds of the state or the main corn belt. The state yield outlook is practically the same as last month.

"Winter wheat, threshed out about as expected and in some instances above earlier expectations.
Yields were extremely uneven due to fly damage, varying from poor to very favorable. District winter wheat yields range from about 21 bushels in the north to 12 to 13 bushels in the south. Oats got off to an early start this season and were largely made ahead of the

ILLNESS MAY HEAL RIFT

Edith Rockefeller McCormick's Divorced Husband to Join Saddened Group at Her Bedside

July heat wave. Threshing returns
Oat yields range very favorable in the northwest and fair to good in much of the northern half of the state and a rather light crop in the south where more than the usual acreage of oats was cut for hay due to short or thin stands. Reserves of old oats on farms are above average. Spring wheat and barley which are mostly raised in northern Illinois have not quite held up to earlier promise and are rated slightly below average. Rye is extremely uneven with yield considerably below average. The condition of white potatoes is above average as development was well advanced ahead of the July heat in central and southern sections, with only moderate damage reported in the more favored northern areas. Sweet potato prospect was reduced by drought and heat in the southern area and is slightly below average. With some southern exceptions, the favorable outlook for soybeans has been maintained. Tame hay yields vary considerably but the state yield is up to average and somewhat better than earliest indications. The first two crops of alfalfa in the south and the first cutting in the north were very favorable. Pasture conditions range from a failure or near failure on southern uplands to

Hoover's Biggest Birthday Card Has 40,000 Signers

No birthday greeting which President Hoover (center) received on his 58th anniversary was so elaborate as the huge birthday card, carrying 40,000 signatures, which youthful Brendan Finn (left), of Somerville, Mass., presented to the Chief Executive. Split up into several large book-like packages, the gift was so heavy that several men had to carry it to the White House. At the right is Charles W. Stevens of New Brunswick, N. J.

"Broomcorn and cotton crops got off to a good start and present prospects are above average. Some early broomcorn had been cut by August 1st. Fruit reports continue to show a rather light or uneven crop of apples due largely to the heavy crop last year and frosts during the bloom period. Farm work is quite well advanced for this time of year. Excepting scattered complaints of hog cholera, livestock is reported in fair to good condition. Early reports indicate increased cattle feeding and less sheep feeding in Illinois than a year ago. For the eleven Corn Belt States combined there were five per cent less cattle on feed on August 1st than a year ago. Increased feeding east of the Mississippi River was more than offset by decreased feeding in western Corn Belt states.

Pittsburgh, Pa. —John Davis of Pittsburgh is all wrapped up in a hobby—gathering strings. Davis started his collecting hobby in 1915, and since that time has gathered a ball that weighs more than 50 pounds. It is four and a half feet in circumference and contains an unknown length of string.

Fortress in Chicago's "Milk War"

Fearing an attempt by racketeers to seize control of Chicago's milk wagon drivers' union by force, union officials have armor-plated their headquarters in the old brownstone
are inspected through peepholes and union officials are carried about the city in an armored car.
Across the street, police have set up a machine gun. The precautions were taken after union officials reported that five armed gang leaders, including Klondike O'Donnell, South Side beer baron (right), visited the headquarters and said they were "muscling in."

BUGGY, NOT AUTO
Albuquerque, N. M. —You often hear of drunken automobile drivers being arrested, but a new kind of a drunken driver was arrested here. He was the driver of a horse and wagon, and was found driving all over the street. The driver was Thomas Riuz. He was held in jail.

Kidnaps Girl, 4, From Family With "Too Many Children"

reception rooms, Thursday, September, 1, at 6:30 P. M. Past Commander "Buck" Faley will act as toastmaster. Veterans of the Civil, Spanish-American and World Wars, their fathers and sons, will be eligible to attend the "Dad's Night" this year. S. I. Barton the custodian of Spring Lake, will cater and luncheon will be served for a modest sum.

The sampling of the contents of a can of lye by Dolores Donaldson 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Donaldson residing near Steward, Friday did not prove fatal, as the child apparently did not swallow the poison. She suffered severe burns on her lips and mouth. The little child found the can of lye in the washroom on her farm home and put the contents on the table. Although treatment of the burns is painful, the child is not in a serious condition.

A passing truck, driven by Mr. Ralph Lewis of Rochelle almost decapitated Phil Curlien of East Chicago, Thursday at Wyand, as he leaned out of his automobile to see if he had a flat tire. He died in a hospital.

Miss Helen Eckhardt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eckhardt, and William Tetting of Milwaukee, were united in marriage on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the pastor of the St. Paul's Lutheran church, Rev. O. H. Lennemier. Nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. Lennemier.

The bride has been employed at Oak Park for several years and is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eckhardt who reside in Reynolds township. The groom, who graduated from the River Forest College, last summer, will teach at Sheboygan, Wis., the coming year.

Announcements have been received in Rochelle of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Garten, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. R. B. Garten of Pottsville, Iowa, to Otto G. Bachmont, on Sunday August 7th. The newly-weds will be at home after October 1st, at Clinton, Iowa. The bride was a former teacher in the local high school.

ANNUAL FARM BUREAU PICNIC IS NEXT FRIDAY

4-H Clubs Exhibits To Be Made At Amboy Fair Grounds

The annual Farm Bureau picnic to be held at the Lee county fair grounds at Amboy on Friday will be supplemented this year by the 4-H Boys and Girls club fair. In previous years the 4-H club work terminated the county fair, but inasmuch as we have no fair this year, we are combining the two into an annual picnic.

4-H Club Fair
The 4-H club fair is to be very interesting and attractive to all farmers in Lee county who are interested in this splendid piece of work being done among the boys and girls in Lee county. The show this year will be one of the largest shows and demonstrations ever held in Lee county. Over 350 pigs are scheduled to make their appearance, 21 baby beehives, 31 dairy calves and 25 lambs and sheep will show for the blue ribbons.

Clothing Clubs
The clothing clubs will have an exhibition and demonstration in the educational building at the Fair Grounds at the same time. The girls are planning a demonstration starting at 10:00 o'clock on the 19th, following this with a style show. The girls are doing a very nice piece of work this year, and their exhibits should be an added attraction to the farm women.

The livestock clubs cover the territory of Hamilton township, and into Harmon; Amboy territory covers a big area around Amboy; Dixon area covers the northwestern part of the county, and Ashton covers the north central part. These are the points where most of the 4-H livestock clubs come from. The clothing clubs are located in Paxmyra, Harmon, Marion, South Dixon, Nachusa, Wyoming and Scottsboro.

Kirkpatrick to be Picnic Speaker
Donald Kirkpatrick, attorney for the Illinois Agricultural Association and recognized as one of the outstanding co-operative lawyers of the United States, will be the speaker at the Farm Bureau picnic. Mr. Kirkpatrick has a very fine voice, a fine delivery, and has made a reputation for himself among the farm people of Illinois. Mr. Kirkpatrick will have a lot of good information for the farm people of Lee county.

The program as outlined for the day is as follows:
9:00 A. M.—Judging of pigs (hog barn) in the following order: Poland Chinas, Duroc Jerseys, Chester Whites, Spotted Poland Chinas.
10:00 A. M.—Demonstration and style show, 4-H Clothing Club (in floral hall).

Necklines Give New Originality to Paris Frocks

Selection of Jewels Should Harmonize with Simplicity of Decolletes, Says Patou

A formal afternoon dress (left) by Jean Patou has a toque fashioned of minute stitched strips of white organdie, worn with a white chenille dotted black mesh veil. The frock is black mouseline with white dots. To harmonize with the new high neckline, Van Cleef & Arpels created (as seen at right) a necklace of diamonds and diamond-baguettes, with bracelets to match, that show a tasteful simplicity. The ermine evening cape is by Patou.

POET'S CORNER

IF I WERE PRESIDENT

I want to be the President.
My task will be no joke:
I'll build an ideal Cabinet
With men of sturdy oak.

When I become the President.
The workman's wage will soar;
I'll arbitrate, conciliate,
And plan to outlaw war.

If I'm elected President,
I'll not play politics;
My daily working hours will be From six A. M. to six.

I'd like to be the President.
And guard the public purse;
The grafters and the sycophants

Will travel in a hearse.

As soon as I am President
I know where to begin;
I'll put all inside rascals out,
But no outside rascals in.

Should I be made the President
I'll stop the income tax I'll load the Treasury's gold on trucks

And help the poor with sacks.

But veterans are safer
And raw recruits a bore.
So let's give Herbert Hoover
A term of four years more.

YANKS INCREASE LEAD BY TAKING DOUBLE HEADER

Cubs Come From Behind And Win Sensation- ally In Ninth

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

On wings of a nine-game winning streak, the New York Yankees have soared into their longest American League lead of the season, and nothing short of a miracle it seems, can prevent them from capturing the flag.

A double triumph over the Detroit Tigers yesterday boosted the Yankees' advantage to 10½ games over the Cleveland Indians and Philadelphia Athletics who were virtually tied for second place although the Indians had a slight edge in percentage.

Thanks to some lusty clouting by Tony Lazzeri, Bill Dickey and Joe Sewell, the Yankees staggered through to win the first game, 13-8, although Danny MacFayden was driven from the box in the eighth inning. Johnny Allen hung up his third victory of the Yankees' current winning streak in the nightcap, 7-3, allowing the Tigers only six hits.

Myatt's Homer Wins

Glenn Myatt's homer with one on in the fifth enabled Cleveland to beat the Athletics, 3-2, in an exciting pitching duel between Mel Harder and George Earnshaw. Mule Haas put the A's within one of a tie when he clouted a homer with one on in the eighth but Harder applied the brakes.

Washington scored four runs in the eighth to beat Chicago, 5-3, while Walter Stewart turned in a seven-hit game to pitch the St. Louis Browns to a victory over Boston 3-2.

The National League program was marked by the temporary check of Brooklyn's high-powered Dodgers who fell before the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-0. This was a scoreless duel between Larry French and Bill Clark until the eighth when the Pirates fell Clark for all their runs. The defeat dropped Brooklyn to a point one and one-half games behind the second place Pirates.

Cubs Win in Ninth

The Chicago Cubs retained their one-game lead over Pittsburgh by winning a sensational game from the Boston Braves, 4-3. The Braves drove Lon Warneke from the box in the eighth when they scored all their runs but the Cubs came back with four in the ninth to win. Dutch Brandt had allowed the Cubs only two hits up to that frame but doubles by Herman, English and Cuyler drove him to cover. His successor, Ben Cantwell was solved for the winning runs.

The St. Louis Cardinals beat the Phillies, 3-2, as Paul Derringer had a slight edge over Flint Rhem in a pitchers' duel. Big Fred Fitzsimmons granted only four hits as the New York Giants nosed out Cincinnati, 2-1.

AIRGARD

Guards Your Air

Eliminates Noise and Dirt

Relieves Hay Fever

The Airgard is a miniature air conditioning unit for homes or offices that can be installed easily and quickly in any sliding window.

It draws in the fresh, outside air, cleanses it of dust and bacteria and releases it in full volume, without drafts, into the room to push out the stale polluted air. It shuts out street noises that wear on the nerves. It removes pollen and other irritants from the air, and makes any room a haven for sufferers from hay fever and bronchial asthma. It catches epidemic and disease germs that ride the dust particles. The Airgard is inexpensive in first cost and operation. Quickly pays for itself in savings to health and furnishings.

HAY-FEVER SUFFERERS will be particularly interested in the results accomplished by leading allergic specialists by the use of the Airgard in the treatment of seasonal hay-fever and bronchial asthma. A special brochure describing tests made at the College of Medical Research, University of Illinois, and giving the results accomplished by the use of filtered air in the treatment of a large number of typical hay-fever cases, is available to anyone who will write—

MANY ENTRIES FOR HARNESS RACES, AMBOY

2:12 Pace To Feature the Program At Fair Track Tomorrow

Featuring the racing program on the second day of the Derby races at the Amboy track tomorrow, will be the 2:12 pace. There were an even dozen entries in this event when the list closed. Of this number there were seven entries with records better than 2:10, and those who are acquainted with the track and the class of racing stock state that this is the fastest combination that has even started on the Amboy oval.

The program opens with a 2:15 trot and a special feature has been added to the bill, a 2:30 trot or pace for two year olds in which five promising colts are entered.

The jumpers are to be seen in action again on Thursday afternoon, the half mile sprint, ending the closing number of the two day Derby program.

Kitten ball teams from Ashton and Amboy will struggle for the county soft ball title at a game to be called at 12 o'clock Thursday noon. Music for the afternoon will be furnished by the Ashton Community and Amboy high school bands. The Weinerwursts from Oregon will provide special entertainment during the intermission between the racing meals.

Dancing at the fair grounds will be featured each evening.

The list of entries for Thursday afternoon's races is as follows:

2:15 Trot Bea Archdale, b. m., Jordan Brothers, Springfield.
Eastern Pan, b. g., Frank Goodall, Harvard.

Abax, b. m., Frank Goodall, Harvard.

Goldenrood Bob, b. s., Idle Hour, Dixon.

Goldenrood Amos, b. s., Idle Hour, Dixon.
Flower Watts, b. f., Tom Barton, Chicago.

A half mile running race will be another feature attraction Thursday afternoon.

Do You Remember?

One Year Ago Today — A line drive from the bat of Shortstop Charley Gelbert of the Cardinals broke Shortstop Travis Jackson's nose and closed his right eye. The Giants broke even with the Cards losing the first 6 to 5 and winning the second 7 to 5.

Five Years Ago Today — Tony Canzoneri, the Brooklyn featherweight, knocked out Pete Sarmiento, Filipino, in 2:51 of the first round before 20,000 fans at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. It was the first knockout of the champ's long list of victories.

Ten Years Ago Today — Spain's Davis Cup tennis team gained an even break in the match with Australia as Manuel Alonzo defeated Pat O'Hara Wood, 2-6, 3-6, 6-2, 8-6, and 6-1, in one of the most extraordinary uphill fights in Davis Cup history at Germantown Cricket Club.

National Interest In Rockford Meet

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 17—National interest next week will be focused on Rockford Country club, scene of the 33rd annual Western Amateur championship, as the 1932 golf season starts down the home stretch.

Don Moe of Portland, Ore., will defend his title here Aug. 22-27 before heading east to play with the American Walker Cup team.

Nearly 150 of the middle west's best golfers will be in action on the beautiful 6,400-yard course along Rock River. Among the prominent entrants will be Chick Evans, seeking his ninth Western Amateur crown; Denmark Miller of Des Moines, Iowa champion; Robert McCarty of Des Moines, former Trans-Mississippi champion; John Jordan, runner-up in the 1932 Trans-Mississippi; Billy Sixty of Milwaukee; Art Sweet, Ira Couch, Frank Justin, George Dawson, and Jack Bowbeer of Chicago; Dick Martin, former Big Ten champion, who reached the semi-finals of the 1931 National Amateur; Charles Weems and Allen Oakley of Quincy; Anthony Haines and William M. Johnson of Rockford; Don Armstrong of Aurora; L. S. Brucker of Detroit; Dick Ashley of Kenosha, Wis.; and E. M. Soboda of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

If you have any items of interest—social or otherwise—mail them to The Dixon Evening Telegraph or telephone No. 5.

A Candidate for the Olympics of 1948

With a couple of aquatic champions for parents, 17-months-old Dlane Wright surely should be a star of the Olympics of 1948. Here you see her in training with her mother, Mrs. Martha Norelius Wright, former world champion swimmer, at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Dlane's father is Joe Wright, the famous sculler from Toronto, Can.

Cubs Rallied To Save Mr. Warneke
Chicago, Aug. 17 —(AP)—The Chicago Cubs have won the last two games started by Lonnie A. Warneke since he won his seventeenth of the season, but the young right-hander is still gunning for his eighteenth triumph.

The league leaders yesterday rallied for enough runs to win over Boston in the ninth, but Warneke had been relieved in the eighth with the score against him. Bud Tinning finished and was credited with the victory.

On August 11 at Pittsburgh, Lon was relieved in the eighth for a pinch batsman, with the Pirates leading. The pinch batsman, Marvin Gudat, started a rally and the Cubs won, but Warneke's successor was credited with the decision.

KEWANEE RING STARS TO GET IN SHOW HERE

Will Be Seen In Action Tomorrow Eve At The Maples

By DON HILLIKER

Kewanee fighters make their bow in the Dixon ring Thursday night in the weekly show of the local athletic club. Starting at 8:30 o'clock there will be seven bouts, six amateur and an exhibition.

George Carlson makes his second start in the ring. Since resuming training Carlson last week polished off Danny Steer in an easy three rounds. This younger of the Carlson brothers in the fighting game is rapidly regaining the popularity he acquired last winter. At 118 pounds George is one of the fastest and cleverest boys in this vicinity. Possessing a surprisingly vicious punch with either hand he relies on a flashing left hand to add points in the win column. Last week's patrons will remember the manner in which he forced Steer to hit the canvas after the latter had him backed to a corner. In his wars last winter George fought three rounds with Vince Perina of Streator and won the decision. An idea of the high caliber of the Dixonite is shown in the fact that Perina trained with the Chicagoand team in preparation for the recent international bouts with Germany and appeared in a preliminary on the mentioned card. Rashid, the opponent of Carlson, is a Golden Gloves boy, winning his spurs in the Davenport tournament.

Billy Davis meets Tony Loco schonas, Kewanee, at 147 pounds. Davis took Becker last week in a furious three rounder. Joe Rosina, of Kewanee squares off with Preston Laurette, the old man of Martonettes. Johnny Easley of Kewanee, conqueror of Kenny Jackson is matched with Joe Chevitoni of Marcelles. Eddie Carlson has Jack Johnson of Kewanee on the program at 137 pounds. Clark Roush of Dixon and Joe Lenihan of Amboy will meet. Roush was one in the east of two in last Thursday's bloody curtain-raiser.

In an exhibition match two brothers, Jack and Joe Sharkey of Dixon, mingle. Jack has been performing as referee in the previous shows and has kept in fine condition working out in the Dixon gym. Joe is acting as a sparring partner for his professional brother, but promises to forget all relationship when in the ring Thursday.

In LaSalle last evening "Kid" McReynolds of Dixon took the "rubber" match from Harold Mindock of Oglesby. McReynolds displaying his speed as never before, punched and danced around the Oglesby battler to take two of the three rounds.

MANY CHANGES IN U. OF IOWA RECOMMENDED

Would Correct Alleged Misadministration Claim

Des Moines, Aug. 17—(AP)—Thirteen recommendations for changes in the business administration of the University of Iowa were contained in a report filed with the State Legislative Council and Board of Education by accountants.

The major recommendations included in the report called for appointment of a business manager to assume complete control of the University's business affairs, a survey of the accounting system, establishment of a central payroll department, and steps to bring abstracts of University property up to date.

After citing various specific instances of "improper administration" by University officials, the accountants grouped into five the "causes of unsatisfactory conditions."

1. The payrolls of the University were handled in an unsatisfactory and inefficient manner and as a consequence payroll padding existed.

2. The University Auditor devoted most of his time and attention to duties which should have been handled by the secretary and the treasurer.

3. The Finance committee of the Board of Education delegated too many of its duties to the officers of the University.

4. The office of the treasurer was handled in an inefficient, negligent, and irregular manner.

5. The inadequate system of internal check in the business office and the failure to properly carry out the provisions of the system in use made possible an unwarranted loss of funds.

NEW LOOPHOLE IN DRY LAW IS REPORTED FOUND

Claimed States Can Legally Make And Sell Intoxicants

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington—There is one last possibility of a legal loophole in the eighteenth amendment through which prohibition might be as good as abolished without waiting for repeal.

That loophole, if it proves to be such, will be as big as a barn door. There will be a tremendous national uproar when and if an attempt is made to open it up.

States Might Manufacture

At least three governors of states are now considering the theory that there is nothing in the prohibition amendment which would prevent a state from engaging in the manufacture, transportation and sale of intoxicating liquors within its own borders.

If one of these governors suddenly brings this proposition before a legislature, perhaps urging action on the ground of need for revenue and the anticipated delay in the process of repeal, the whole prohibition situation is likely to be changed overnight and its other phases buried until the new issue is fought out.

John F. Finerty, a Washington lawyer of high prestige, wrote the brief developing the proposition at the request of a middle western governor. Finerty used to be counsel of the U. S. Railroad Administration.

In case the contention were made stick, the wets surely would erect monuments to him and dries would hang him in effigy as often as they foregathered.

His proposition is that the police powers conferred on the federal government in the amendment are applicable against citizens of states, but not against the states themselves; that a state has the power to go into the liquor industry and that there is nothing in the constitution to stop it.

Lawyers Find No Flaws

The supreme court has never passed on the point and prominent lawyers here and in New York have scrutinized the Finerty brief without finding any flaw in it.

The federal government always had jurisdiction over liquor in interstate commerce, but passage and ratification of a special amendment was necessary to give it police powers over the liquor traffic within the borders of the several states.

The very fact that the powers conferred on the federal government by the amendment were police powers, Finerty says, "necessarily excludes any implication that any power was conferred against the states themselves, since police powers are those exercised by a sovereign against its subjects."

citizens; and since the police powers in question were those theretofore exclusively exercised by the several states against their respective citizens. The amendment, therefore, merely conferred on the federal government concurrent power with the several states to prohibit, as against the citizens thereof, the manufacture, transportation and sale of intoxicating liquor within those states—without conferring on the federal government any such powers against the states themselves."

Point Congress Overlooked
It is an established canon of statutory construction, Finerty says, that legislation does not apply to a sovereign unless the sovereign be named. It cannot be held that Congress or the states, in passage and ratification, had in mind the handling of liquor by a state itself, since no state was then or had been engaged in manufacture, transportation and sale.

A state which undertakes to make and sell alcoholic beverages, Finerty points out, would have to act through its bona fide agents and would have no power to confer on any citizen or corporation the right to engage in such business.

Even without the repeal of the amendment, the project would be confined and controlled within state lines, both state and federal governments undertaking to prevent interstate transportation. The state, it is held, would be able to avoid the evils of private liquor traffic and to end present public corruption inside its own borders. Meanwhile its liquor would not be subject to federal taxation, but only a large item of state revenue.

Finerty doesn't think it likely that the federal government would make any serious effort to interfere and can see no tenable ground for interference anyway. He thinks that if the matter goes to the supreme court his position will be upheld.

CITY LEAGUES' SEASON ENDS TOMORROW EVE

Plans Will Be Made At Once For Championship Series

GAMES TONIGHT Merchants vs Swissville Grocers—North field. Brady Villagers vs Ideal Cafe—South field. Highlanders vs City Dudes—Independent field.

Thursday evening's set of games will close the season's schedule for the two soft ball leagues and the league officials will immediately arrange the rules to govern the city championship series to be played next week. The coveted first place positions in both leagues have been practically clinched for several days, the City Dudes and Wink's Specials occupying these positions.

The Clowns scored victory last evening at Independent field by defeating the James Maulers by a score of 5 to 4. Meikle allowed only five hits. The score:

MONA MORAN, receptionist in a Wall Street law office, is in love with BARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent, whom she met through STEVE SAVCA-RELLI, her childhood sweetheart. Steve and Barry have just returned from South America where—largely by chance—Steve became associated with Barry in operating a diamond mine, once believed worthless but now valuable. Steve owns a huge diamond called "The Empress of Peru." Gangsters try to steal the stone but he outwits them. Steve has earned Mona's gratitude by befriending her errand brother, BUD, sending him to South America and giving him a job in the mine. Mona needs $500 for hospital treatment for her invalid father. Her employer agrees to loan her the money and then makes an amazing proposal. He tells Mona a wealthy client of the firm wishes to marry her immediately with the understanding she shall occupy her own apartment, have unlimited charge accounts and do whatever she wishes for a year. At the end of that time she may become the man's wife in actuality or secure a divorce. She asks the man's name and is told it is Barry Townsend.

Mona agrees. Her friend, LOTTIE CARLIS, fashion model, goes with her to the Townsend home. There Mona learns it is Barry's uncle, of the same name, whom she is to marry. Young Barry and Steve have both sailed for South America. Having given her word, Mona goes through with the ceremony. She and Lottie depart immediately.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXV

MONA was relieved to find that her mother accepted the sudden marriage without question. "Married?" she cried delightedly when Mona arrived at the flat and told her the news. "Sure and I thought something was up when you two girls got your heads together. Who is it now—Steve?"

Mona shook her head. "Oh, not Steve, Mother! It's Barry Townsend."

"Barry?" Ma had heard of Barry many times. He had figured frequently in Mona's telephone chats with Lottie. Steve, too, had often spoken of him when visiting the little flat.

"No, not Barry. At least not the Barry you mean. I married his uncle, John Barnett Townsend, the banker."

"John Barnett Townsend, the banker? And wedding trip? Let me see your ring."

The rings, both of them, were displayed and brought exclamations of admiration from Mrs. Moran.

"I'll tell you all about it, Mother. Mona explained over the ever-ready cup of tea. "Mr. Townsend is ill. He asked me to marry him immediately. He had been around the office quite a bit—"

Ma stirred her cup contentedly and pushed a plate of rolls toward Mona. "And you met him there," she supplied.

"He's a great friend of Mr. Garretson's," Mona went on. "He was ill—Mr. Townsend, I mean—and he wanted the wedding to take place right away. I didn't call you up because I wasn't sure myself. I didn't want to upset you! But when—"

"When you saw the poor man lying there, sick and all, you couldn't refuse. That's my girl, all over! Kindhearted," Mrs. Moran stopped talking and scrutinized Mona fixedly. "Do you love him, Min?" she asked.

For answer Mona rose from her seat and began moving nervously about the room. "Mother! Do you think I would marry him because I felt sorry for him?"

"Girls have queer reasons these days, I'll be bound," her mother answered. "Still and all, Min, you looked happy enough when you came in. I won't worry you."

"I am happy—enough, Ma. My husband" (unconsciously she used the phrase) "is a good man. He's kind and he's rich. He's generous, too! I'll be able to see Dad through all the treatment he requires! And I can do so many things for the rest of you."

"You always do that, Min."

BUT later, when Mona unfolded a hastily devised plan for the welfare of her family, Mrs. Moran was not enthusiastic.

"A little house in the country, Min?" she repeated. "Flowers? Birds? A porch to sit on afternoons?"

"I thought it would be so nice. Ma. I can afford it now. Nice friends for Kitty and a place for Dad when he's stronger."

"Listen, Min, a little money to run the house, like you always gave me, is enough." Her mother's eyes swept the small flat lovingly. "Maybe some new linoleum for the kitchen. Maybe some new blankets. Buy Kitty the new shoes she's been pestering me for. With the money you always gave, Min, and what Bud sends we'll get on fine. But don't take us away from here, Min. This is home!"

"I see," Mona told her simply, patting her mother's shoulder. And she did see. Ma was quite right. She was happy here. In the sort of home in the country on which Mona had set her heart for her father and mother how happy would they be?

"All right, if that's what you want, Ma," promised Mona. She slid her arms into her new coat and adjusted the collar before Ma's little mirror. She smiled back at its reflection as she pulled her hat a wee bit to the right.

"I—we are staying at the Ritz now, Ma," Mona told her mother, stooping to kiss her as she left. "In a few days my address will be—here I'll write it." She scribbled as legibly as she could with a gloved hand. "And here's the phone number. You won't need it except in case of trouble because I'm going to drop in every day if I possibly can."

MA considered again. "Your husband—will he like that, Min? We're simple people—"

"Mother! I told you my husband is a good man!"

From the corner store Mona sent groceries. She paused in the butcher shop to select a roast and some fresh eggs to be sent to the Morans, paying for them with new bills that crackled suggestively.

She and Lottie had agreed on dinner at 7:30. Lottie, arriving just before six, found Mona comfortably ensconced in a becoming negligee, her bronze hair shining in the lamp light like a halo.

"I'm trying to decide what to send Mother," Mona said, putting aside paper and pencil and rising, her exquisite robe fluttering about her slender figure.

"You couldn't join me in a date I suppose?" Lottie asked carelessly. Mona's voice was tinged with sarcasm. "Hardly. You know that perfectly well."

Lottie shrugged. "Well, you might just as well have gone to prison. It's a fine honeymoon you're having!" She drew a yellow envelope from her purse and handed it to Mona. "I sent a radiogram to Barry in your name," she confessed.

Hairbrush in hand, Mona wheeled from the mirror, her face white. "You didn't?"

"I did—or rather, you did!" Lottie held the yellow envelope toward Mona who read:

"S. S. MIRANDA at Sea. Mrs. Moran Townsend (in care of Lottie's address)."

Barry too ill to answer. Hardly see how it could be mistake. Hope you wore the necklace. A year is a long time.—STEVE.

Mona scanned Lottie's face. "What did you say in that wire, for heaven's sake?"

"Why, I just told Barry that it was a mistake. I said in a year he'd understand. He probably thinks

MORE JOBS AND ADVERTISING TO BOLSTER TRADE

Business Professor Of Columbia University Says So

Chicago—A belief that a turn in business for retail merchants is developing in Chicago through the efforts of the Interstate Merchants' Council was expressed in a talk at the Sheraton Hotel before the council by Paul H. Nystrom, professor of marketing, School of Business, Columbia University.

The council which was organized 11 years ago through the Chicago Association of Commerce, has over 1400 member stores in 48 states and Canada. Attendance at the fall session now in progress is 25 per cent greater than last year, George W. Rosseter, president of the Association, welcomed the merchants to the city.

Mr. Nystrom said he was cheered by the feeling of optimism prevailing at the council sessions here. However, he pointed out that the merchants generally will find it no simple matter to secure profitable business.

Urges Increase in Jobs

The great amount of unemployment makes a huge obstacle to the return of normal business to retail stores, Mr. Nystrom said holding that the solution of that problem rested in the furnishing of jobs. He criticized "the present system of private and semi-private vate does that destroy self respect a system that already has turned millions of our citizens into pan-handlers and bums." The staggering of work was one method he suggested for alleviating the situation.

To get business during 1932 he said the retailer must follow these points:

1. More intimate and careful study of consumers' requirement followed by giving customers just what they want.
2. Providing unusual values in fashion and quality at prices the consuming public is ready and willing to pay.
3. Applying unusually aggressive sales and advertising effort to increase the volume of sales to old customers and to get hold of new groups of customers.
4. The introduction of new goods new lines, new departments of merchandise that have not been carried before but that have proved popular.

Need Public Confidence

Mr. Nystrom pointed out the dangers of selling poor merchandise because of low prices, saying public confidence once destroyed is difficult to recover.

"To stop advertising would be like trying to stop breathing," Mr. Nystrom added. "Certainly, when business is delinquent is no time to quit. Retailers who have concentrated their attention on securing better advertising have, on the whole, done much better during recent months than those who have slashed their advertising appropriation."

Reports around the headquarters of the council yesterday were to the effect that buying is active although not in the quantities of former days. One of the officials of Marshall Field & Co., wholesale, asserted that the heads of several departments said it looked like old times on their floors.

UNCLE SAM'S NEW TAXES WHERE THEY HIT YOU —AND HOW!

By Robert Talley
NEA Service Writer

In the form of new taxes on automobiles, radios, candy, chewing gum, movies, gasoline and countless other items, millions upon millions of dollars are being collected from the American public this year.

But the worst is yet to come—Next March 15, when income taxes for 1932 become payable, the nation's income taxpayers will find $178,000,000 added to their bill.

The old law put the normal tax on individuals at 1 1/2 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the credits allowed; three per cent on the next $4,000 and five per cent on the remainder. Surtaxes began on incomes in excess of $10,000, and at one per cent.

The 1932 law makes the income tax rate four per cent on the first $4,000 of net income, eight per cent on the remainder and places a graduated surtax beginning at one per cent on amounts above $6,000.

Exemptions are reduced from $2,500 to $2500 in the case of married persons and from $1500 to $1,000 in the case of single persons this further increasing the amount of the tax.

Net Income	Old Tax	1932 Tax
$3000	None	$ 20.00
$4000	$ 7.50	60.00
$5000	22.50	100.00

Net Income	Old Tax	1932 Tax
$1500	None	$ 20.00
$2000	$ 7.50	40.00
$3000	22.50	80.00
$4000	37.50	120.00
$5000	52.50	160.00

The exemption for dependents (children, dependent relatives, etc.) remains unchanged at $400 each.

Last year there was a special 25 per cent reduction in the tax on earned income. The new law abolishes that reduction.

The rich will pay vastly more taxes, too. Starting at one per cent net incomes over $6,000, surtaxes under the new law rise gradually to a maximum of 55 per cent (as compared to a maximum of 20 per cent last year) on incomes of over $1,000,000. Thus, a man with a million dollar income this year will pay $571,000 as against less than half that much last year.

President Hoover recently cut $15,000 off his own $75,000 salary now legally exempt from income tax. But the 1932 law says that the salaries of Presidents and Federal judges who take office after its enactment shall be subject to the tax. Beginning next March 4, the tax on the President's salary will be approximately $18,000 a year.

The Federal tax on corporations is increased from 12 per cent to 13 3/4 per cent, or 14 1/2 per cent in the case of corporations filing consolidated returns for affiliates. These two increases and certain eliminated exemptions are expected to produce $41,000,000 in new revenue.

FARM BUREAUS SEEK CHANGES IN MIXED RULE

Propose Plan To Cut the Cost Of Shipping Stock By Rail

A modification of the mixed livestock rule covering freight charges on cars carrying mixed classes of livestock is proposed by the Illinois Agricultural Association in a recent letter to the Illinois Freight Association. The new proposal would simplify mixed shipments of livestock by rail and result in appreciable savings to livestock growers on present rail transportation costs on this class of business.

Under the present rule, farmers are penalized severely in freight charges where they include a few head of sheep or calves with other classes of livestock. In such cases, the entire car takes the higher freight rate on sheep or calves. Under the proposal of the I. A. A., mixed shipments would take the more moderate rate on hogs for the actual weight of livestock minus an arbitrary shrink allowance of 550 pounds per mixed carload.

"One of the chief advantages in our proposal over the present system of figuring charges on mixed cars of livestock," said L. J. Quasey, director of transportation, "is its simplicity, and its fairness to both the carrier and the livestock grower. Under the present system, the shipping association manager or grower who is not familiar with this rule suffers from an excessive freight charge on the shipment where a few head of calves or sheep are included with hogs or cattle or both. A great deal of confusion would be eliminated under our plan both in figuring charges on mixed carloads and in making up cars at point of shipment."

The association also proposes modification of the rule regarding stopping-in-transit so that livestock shippers may have the privilege of stopping a car at several country points to complete loading. Under the present system charges make it almost prohibitive to load a car half full at one point and then move on to another point to complete loading.

The fact that railroads are giving more attention and study to livestock traffic than ever before indicates that the Illinois Agricultural Association proposal will be given favorable consideration. The rapid growth of trucking in livestock transportation to market means that large numbers of livestock, formerly shipped by rail, are now moving to the terminals by truck.

PAW PAW NEWS

By Mrs. B. R. Tyerman

Paw Paw—The funeral of the late James H. LaPorte was held at the late home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Canfield, a former pastor conducted the services.

Mr. LaPorte was stricken with apoplexy Sunday morning and remained in an unconscious condition until death claimed him on Thursday morning.

Mr. LaPorte was an active worker in the community club, school affairs, Odd Fellows Lodge and other civic enterprises.

He leaves his wife and daughter, Maxine besides many relatives and friends.

Mrs. Nellie Moffett returned home from the hospital at Rochester, Minn. She is confined at the home of her sister, Mrs. Will Fleming. Mrs. E. P. Valentine is assisting in her care.

Miss Clara Ulrey is visiting her sister, Vallie in Aurora this week. Jack and Russell Swarthout of Los Angeles, Calif. are guests here at the Edwards, Case and Gorton homes. They sang several special numbers at the M. E. church on Sunday morning.

M. F. Thorsen, Sycamore, who will pilot the work at the high school as Superintendent the coming term was a visitor in town the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Benton Tyerman and son, Earl spent several days in Aurora with Mrs. Tyerman's sisters, Mrs. C. O. Baird and Mrs. John Jacobson.

Margaret and John Jacobson of Aurora are spending the week end at the B. R. Tyerman home.

Rev. L. E. Winter and family will take a vacation from his duties at the M. E. church.

The Dixon Civic band under the direction of Charles B. Price, will appear in the next to the last of the series of popular summer concerts Friday evening of this week. The concert will be given in the Assembly Park auditorium beginning at 7:30. Howard Crews and Eugene Lebre will be the vocal soloists and a trombone solo by Frank Price will be features of the program, which is as follows:

March, "Chicago Tribune" Chambers.
Overture, "Merry Wives of Windsor" Nicoll.
(A) Popular Foxtrot, "That Little Boy of Mine" Hirsch
(Chorus by Howard Crews)
Trombone solo, "Autumn Colors" Barnhouse
(By Frank Price)
American Sketch, "Down South" Myddleton

The "sketch" opens with a very quaint dance. The first two movements depict the restless nature of the languid southern darkey. The trio introduces a tuneful melody which is hummed by a majority of the band and the audience is carried away with the strain finds itself unconsciously humming with the band.

(B) March, "Cerebral" Barnhouse
Waltz, "Etellette Inverness" Ganme
(A) "Japanese Sunset" Deppen
(C) Popular Foxtrot, "Snuggie on Your Shoulder" Lombardo
(Chorus by Eugene Lebre.)
Descriptive Paraphrase, "Grandfather's Clock" Amsden Selection, "The Red Mill" Victor Herbert.
March "Them Basses" Huftine.

The program given by the pupils of the Daily Vacation Bible school given the past two weeks at the Washington Grove Christian church was well attended, the capacity of the building being taxed to accommodate all who came to hear the program. Under the direction of Miss Bertha Sanford with the Misses Mary and Ethel Sanford, Mrs. Florence Tilton, Mrs. Ira Heath, Mrs. Charlotte Meling the work progressed successfully. The enrollment numbered close to 80 and the attendance each day was excellent. The program of work should much interest had been taken in the work by these attending.

Miss Alice Kness of Lanark enjoyed a visit on Monday with Miss Esther Garman.

ASHTON NEWS

By Mrs. E. Tilton

ASHTON—Funeral services for the late Mrs. James Batchelor were largely attended on Saturday by many friends. Mrs. Bachelor, nee Caroline Cherry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cherry of Houghton Conquest, England was born December 21, 1844 and came to this country when a small child, settling in our community where she has since made her home. Her husband preceded her in death in 1919. Surviving her is one son, George, who mourns the loss of a devoted mother. Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. C. D. Wilson of the Ashton M. E. church of which she had been a member for many years.

EXHIBITORS AT FAIR WILL GET A BREAK

Will Not Be Charged Excessively For Feed, Bedding

Springfield, Ill. Aug. 17.—(AP)—Stuart E. Pierson, state director of agriculture today gave assurance that livestock exhibitors at the Illinois State Fair will not be forced to pay exorbitant prices for feed, forage or bedding for their stock. He announced a fixed price on grain forage and prepared feeds, following a conference with Springfield feed dealers. It was as follows:—

The price of grain, delivered to the stables and pens on the state fairgrounds, in any quantity, at any time during the fair, will be fifty per cent over the price offered for such grain at country elevators in the Springfield territory Monday morning, August 22.

The price of hay and straw, delivered, will be fifty per cent over the price at the wholesale food concerns in Springfield.

The price on commercial feeds, in one bag lots or more, delivered on the grounds, will be fifty per cent over the wholesale price in Springfield.

"In other words," Director Pierson said, "if the country elevators are paying ten cents per bushel for oats Monday morning, exhibitors on the grounds can buy oats at fifteen cents per bushel delivered to their stalls. Other commodities will be priced accordingly."

Exhibitors have been invited to bring their own food with them if they find it more economical, the director stated. The special service that exhibitors demand, he said, justifies a higher price on foods than the price the dealers pay, but the state fair management will not permit excessive charges.

SALES TAX IS AGAIN TALKED BY LAW MAKERS

Will Undoubtedly Get Consideration At Coming Congress

Washington, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The sales tax, cause of many a bitter congressional debate, right now is being warmed up for another start through the legislative mill.

Of course, before Congress meets the fire may go out, but there still are members who think a general sales tax of say 1½ percent, should be substituted for the many special excise levies now in the law.

Senator Smoot, chairman of the Finance committee, predicts that the December session will see a new study of the tax situation. In the House, where all tax legislation must originate, Democrats already have a special committee surveying the problem.

Smoot and these Democrats are bearing in mind President Hoover's acceptance speech statement that "recent increases in revenues, while temporary, should be again examined, and if they tend to sap the vitality of industry, and thus retard employment, they must be revised."

There are many in and out of Congress who believe some of the excise rates "sap the vitality of industry" just as there are many who think a general sales levy would be more harmful.

Henry I. Harriman, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, is in the former group.

New Englanders Selling Eclipse

Conway, N. H., Aug. 17.—(AP)—They are selling the August 31 eclipse of the sun to vacationists at the New England summer resorts.

Selling an eclipse proves to be about like selling apples—those who started earliest and worked hardest have the most profits. These profits already in prospect are sufficient to qualify the rare celestial spectacles as one of the 1932 come-backs from the depression.

The source of revenue is mostly thousands of spectators planning to visit the summer resort section over which the path of totality will sweep at 3:30 P.M. Eastern Standard Time. Sufficient reservations already are in sight to make up part of a "season" thus far showing the characteristic 1932 curtailment.

Mt. Carmel Plant Running Full Time

Mount Carmel, Ill. —(AP)—There is one industrial plant in Mount Carmel, that is feeling the press of awakening business activity—the United Paperboard Company plant, which is running day and night and Sunday and is humming as in days preceding the depression.

The plant, recently reopened after being closed for seven months due to slack business conditions, employs upwards of fifty men. It produces heavy paper, made from straw, used in the manufacture of boxes and for shipping.

Not only does it provide work for its employees, but it also requires an immense amount of straw in a large area surrounding Mount Carmel. On re-opening, the company had huge ricks of straw on its lot held over from last year. This is now being used up, but new straw stock will soon begin moving into the plant.

BAMAKO; NIGER RIVER FORT, OF VALUE TO FRENCH

Is Spearhead For That Country's African Possessions

Washington, D. C. — Bamako was entered by French soldiers half a century ago.

Few Americans understand the significance of the anniversary; but every loyal Frenchman knows that the founding of a fort at a little village on the Niger River in West Africa was a momentous step toward building the huge French colonial empire that now covers more than a third of the Dark Continent. Plans have been started in France to celebrate in 1933 the capture of Bamako, and to erect there a monument to General Bagnis-Desbordes, who, then a lieutenant-colonel, was commander of French forces in West Africa. A monument to General Archinard, then a captain, who led the troops into Bamako and beyond, will be erected at Segou, 140 miles farther down the Niger River.

A bulletin from the Washington D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society deals with Bamako and the region near-by along the Niger.

Transformed by French "Bamako, which was a native village of only 800 inhabitants when the French took possession of it in 1883, has now become a fine little city with a population of 20,000," says the bulletin. "It is astounding to western visitors how the touch of France has transformed this far-away African community. In the outlying portions of the town are native huts of mud with thatched roofs. In other sections are flat-topped dwellings and shops of Moorish type. But in addition there are broad shady avenues lined with solidly built stone structures reminiscent of French provincial towns.

"Bamako is the administrative center for the 360,000 square miles and two and a half million people of French Sudan. It has a large European population consisting of governmental officials and clerks, soldiers, railway employees and merchants and traders. After the sun has set, tables appear in the court in front of the French-operated hotel, and soon there are gathered around them groups of the white residents, chatting and sipping aperitifs for all the world as they would at the sidewalk cafes of Paris or Lyon or Marseille.

In Rich Grain Country "The town is on the left bank of the Niger, which at this point is several hundred yards wide. It is situated on a relatively low plain, and from it for many miles up and down stream stretch irrigated fields of rice and millet. Northward from the town, the farming land extends for only a few miles to the edge of a plateau which makes its closest approach to the Niger opposite Bamako. In the hills forming the rim of the tableland are two French communities that form important parts of the town. The closer is the residence group of the Lieutenant Governor of French Sudan and his administrative staff. The dominant building is the official residence of the Lieutenant Governor, a great stone chateau which is the most pretentious mansion in all West Africa. A few miles deeper in the hills, but connected with the town by rail, is the French military garrison. "Good roads have been built in Bamako and in a zone around the town. There are a few automobiles in use and many horse-drawn vehicles. Camel caravans occasionally are seen, but the town is south of the usual range of these beasts of burden and overland freight is carried for the most part by donkey back.

Busy River Traffic "The market at Bamako is one of the busiest in western Africa, far surpassing that at more famous but less commercial Timbuktu 500 miles down the Niger. The market is crowded for the most part with negroid people of the region and lighter colored 'Moors'—a name applied loosely to the tribesmen who come down with cattle from the north and northwest. Scattered in the throng are a few stalwart Arabs, garbed in white flowing robes. In the market place all sorts of produce are exposed for sale: rice, millet, ground nuts, cattle, sheep, ponies, dairy products, pottery metal work and textiles.

"This is the last down stream port of the navigable portion of the Upper Niger, and to its wharves comes a varied river traffic. A few miles below the river tumbles over two courses of rapids, falling some thirty feet. For several hundred miles above Bamako, the Niger forms a water highway on which ply launches, barges and large freight canoes. The barges are often propelled by sails, while the canoes are paddled or poled by native boatmen. At the lowest stages of the river the launches and most of the barges are tied up, leaving the traffic almost exclusively to the shallow-draft canoes.

"Thirty miles below Bamako, at Kulikoro, navigation again begins, and extends for 800 miles along the middle Niger. The railway which the French have built from Dakar on the Atlantic coast, through Senegal and into French Sudan, extends through Bamako ends at Kulikoro. It thus connects the upper and middle navigable sections of the Niger. It is planned to extend this railway soon to Segou and later to Timbuktu."

To Operate Still At Illinois Fair

Springfield, Ill. —(AP)—A still will be in operation at the Illinois State Fair—not to make illicit liquor, but to show how gasoline and kerosene are tested by the Department of Trade and Commerce, that branch of state service announced today. The distillation apparatus will be in charge of Walter Müller, not a moonshiner, but the superintendent of the gasoline inspection service of the state. It will be one feature of an array of exhibits and will represent the state department of trade and commerce and the Illinois Commerce Commission, and their diversified activities.

Free Licenses For Veterans Illegal

Springfield, Ill. —(AP)—Attorney General—Carlstrom led today World War veterans were not entitled to free licenses for peddling. State's Attorney Harry E. Pratt of Peoria requested the opinion. Carlstrom pointed out that the Supreme Court recently held unconstitutional an act of legislature giving veterans free license privileges. The court declared the act granted special privileges to a class.

A rehearing petition on the decision, made in the case of George Marallis versus the city of Chicago, will come before the high court in the October term.

"The Winner Never Quits AND The Quitter Never Wins"

This homely old adage is just true as can be and applies forcefully to poultry and egg production at the present time.

You may remember the story of the farmer who quit raising wheat because it lost him money and also quit raising corn, hogs, cattle and chickens for the same reason. When he got through he had raised nothing and lost more money than anytime in his life before.

Staying in the game is the only way to succeed. But of course, just staying won't get anybody very far. While they stay they must work, and work intelligently.

PROFITS await the person who THINKS as well as WORKS. Mix those two and you are just bound to make some money. That is being proven right now during these hot weeks by folks who are willing to take the pains to produce HENNERY EGGS for the select trade that is waiting to buy them from us. There is an unfailing principal involved here. The harder it is to produce GOOD EGGS, for instance, the fewer folks will keep producing them and that eventually means MORE MONEY for you if you are one of the people to continue to put these select eggs on the market.

We keep telling you, though, about feeding a balanced ration and giving your hens plenty of fresh water because that insures for you a larger percent of big, vigorous eggs and consequently means more money to you, as well as supplying our high-class trade with the eggs they want.

We believe that poultry and egg prices justify your producing all you can. There is always something new to learn about poultry raising; that is one of the interesting things about it. You may have some special problem to solve right now. If you have, bring it to us. We keep a special man on the job for just such emergencies and his advice will not cost you a cent. We like a friendly visit with our patrons about their business.

DIXON KNIGHTS TEMPLAR TO GO TO BIG CONCLAVE

Grand Commandery Will Meet In Danville
Saturday, Aug. 27

The seventy-sixth annual Conclave of Grand Commandery of the Knights Templar of Illinois will convene at Danville, beginning Saturday, August 27th and continuing the following Sunday and Monday. Saturday will be devoted principally to the Commanders of the various Commanderies in registering and securing their credentials.

On Sunday, August 28th, the grand parade will be held beginning at 2 o'clock sharp. It is estimated from the reports obtained that there will be between sixty and seventy-five Commanderies in line accompanied by their bands and drum and bugle corps. The line of parade, while designed to be shorter than in former years, will carry the line of march through the business section of the city and pass the reviewing stand which will be occupied by the officer of the Grand Commandery of Illinois. After passing a review the parade will be reformed at which time the colors will be massed, followed by the massed formations of the officers and Sir Knights, which presents a very spectacular pageant.

Grand Ball Saturday
On Saturday evening the grand ball will be held in the auditorium to which all Sir Knights and their ladies are invited.

Commander David G. Palmer, of Dixon Commandery who has just returned from Danville, reports that elaborate arrangements and preparations are being made for the Conclave. The headquarters of the Dixon Commandery will be at the Carlton Hotel where Dixon Sir Knights and their ladies will report upon their arrival at Danville.

The Dixon Commandery expects to send a large delegation to the Conclave. All of the line officers have expressed themselves as planning to attend, including the drum and bugle corps and a large number of Sir Knights and their ladies.

For the entertainment of the Sir Knights and ladies while at the Conclave, among other things, will be the courtesy cars furnished to the ladies, band concerts and theater parties.

The delegations planning to attend the Conclave are looking forward to a very enjoyable time.

EXPENDITURES
YEAR TOTALLED

Receipts Exceeded Expenses By About Six Millions

Springfield, Ill. —(AP)—The expenditures of the state of Illinois in the year ended June 30, 1932, totaled $127,029,641.70, and its income in that period was $133,091,492.98. State Treasurer Edward J. Barrett announced in an analysis of appropriations and receipts of the last biennium.

Due to the fact that real estate taxes were collectable semi-annually for the first time, this year, the direct property tax income dropped from $37,817,009.14 in the year ended June 30, 1931, to $17,781,242.14 for the next fiscal year. Only half of the annual real estate tax was included.

The item that gave the state $133,091,492.98 to spend in the year ended June 30, 1932, as compared with $124,131,048.90 the year before, was $32,235,000 of tax anticipation notes sold. Inheritance tax collection shrank from $9,994,862.32 to $6,356,210.47; indirect taxes such as those on corporations, increased from $12,555,641.22 to $12,762,777.53; motor vehicle license fees decreased from $18,487,024.29 to $17,124,389.66 and the motor fuel tax increased from $29,335,844.85 to $30,461,789.89.

Federal aid received in Illinois increased from $5,522,553.99 in the year ended June 1931 to $9,147,057.48 the following year. Appropriations by the 57th General Assembly for both years totaled $366,599,468.83. Unemployment relief resulted in expenditure of $9,419,323.61 in the year ended June 1932, and with that amount gave expenditures of the year before.

Highway construction and maintenance increased from $39,309,436.65 in the year ended June 1931 to $36,506,189.90 the following year. Charitable and penal institutions cost decreased from $20,925,064.82 to $18,761,485.89; expenditures for education decreased from $22,419,345.69 to $13,533,998.69 but money paid on retirement of bonds, anticipation notes and interest increased from $14,769,534.09 to $18,315,291.99.

County allotments and refunds from the motor fuel tax increased from $10,261,621.91 to $12,504,018.43. Expenditures for waterway construction decreased from $81,311.23 to $658,670.78, and the cost of Illinois' Military contingent decreased from $1,474,247.92 to $1,075,670.91.

Legal and judicial expenditures increased from $1,911,529.87 in the year ended June 1931 to $2,475,065.62 in the year ended June 1932. Departments labor and mines and miners cost $978,346.74 as compared with $1,031,978.40 expended in the year ended June 1932.

Expenses of the legislature in an off year decreased from $955,740.69 to $164,193.57 and flood relief expenditures shrank from $631,162.33 to $685,235.90.

Public health cost increased from $98,074.51 to $614,160.79, and conservation of game, fish and forests increased from $509,353.40 to $619,180.06.

WORLD WAR
BY * * * YARNS
LIEUT. FRANK E. HAGAN

The Widow Poissenot

France's undying love of country passed down from one generation to another, expressed itself immediately the armistice was signed. Then it was that some member of the French equivalent for Tin Pan Alley published a new martial song, exhorting all Frenchmen to "rush to the frontiers—protect our borders with life itself." And it was taught promptly to all the French school children.

Widow Poissenot was proprietress of the Cafe de Tabac in the struggling little commune of Champignol, department of the Aube. Right nobly did she care for an American lieutenant and two non-coms who stayed at her cafe to billet the town for troops, in early 1918.

Even the dandelion salad, for which the material was dug from surrounding hillsides, was presented with the grand gesture. "This," the Widow Poissenot would say, "is for the American mission!" Then the troops came—a battalion of the Sixtieth Infantry. They struggled in from a long hike over the hills from Bar-sur-Aube and pitched pup tents in a meadow beyond the town. Champignol inhabitants, mostly old men, women and children, brought wine for the empty canteens of these, their first American soldiers.

Just at dusk, Madame Poissenot disappeared from the Cafe de Tabac. When next seen her gaunt little body was in front of an American soldier's tent. She had knelt and was peering intently at the equipment inside. After several minutes she arose.

"I wish to see everything," Madame Poissenot explained simply. "Everything. So that I can tell the children about it as soon as they are old enough to understand."

Here's the TRUTH about Funeral Prices

GOOD BUSINESS, as well as common sense, says that everyone should know something of charges made for services which every family will some day require. Surprisingly few people have any idea of the costs of funeral service, accepting without question the rumor that funeral directors charge needlessly high prices. Yet the sworn statement below proves that a comforting service through Joseph W. Staples may be secured at prices within the means of every family. Approximately half of the last 250 complete adult funerals through this firm cost less than $250.

IF YOU MISS SUN'S ECLIPSE AUG. 31, YOU MUST WAIT UNTIL 1963 TO SEE ANOTHER ONE!

Scientists Are Ready For Precious 100 Seconds

By NEA Service—
A period of just 100 precious seconds — not to be repeated again for 31 years!

Observers in the United States and Canada should look carefully at the total eclipse of the sun on Wednesday, Aug. 31, for they will not see such an awe-inspiring spectacle again until July 20, 1963, according to scientists.

Still that is not as bad as it might be. Up to a couple of weeks ago, the astronomers were saying that another total eclipse of the sun would not be visible in the United States and Canada until Oct. 12, 1997, which is 65 years hence.

Then they made a startling discovery. And that discovery makes an interesting story. It goes this way:

Back in 1887, Dr. Theodore von Oppolzer, an Austrian astronomer, completed the monumental task of charting and mapping 8000 eclipses of the sun from the year 1207 B. C. to 2162 A. D. He published his charts and maps in book form.

Von Oppolzer's book, has been the Bible of every astronomer dealing with eclipses. Of course his calculations were approximate, but considering the immense magnitude of his work they were remarkable.

His calculations put the next total eclipse, visible in the above-mentioned area in the year 1997. Until just recently, astronomers, accepted that without question. But a few weeks ago, experts connected with the U. S. Nautical Almanac, began a new check of Dr. Von Oppolzer's calculations. To their surprise, these new calculations showed that there will be another total eclipse visible in the said area only 31 years from now.

The eclipse of July 20, 1963, astronomers say, will follow approximately the same path as this year's eclipse. It will sweep out of the northwest, cut across the southwestern edge of the Hudson Bay, pass over Maine and disappear in the Atlantic Ocean.

In 1945, 1954 and 1959 small eclipses will be visible in the United States but there will be none of importance until 1963.

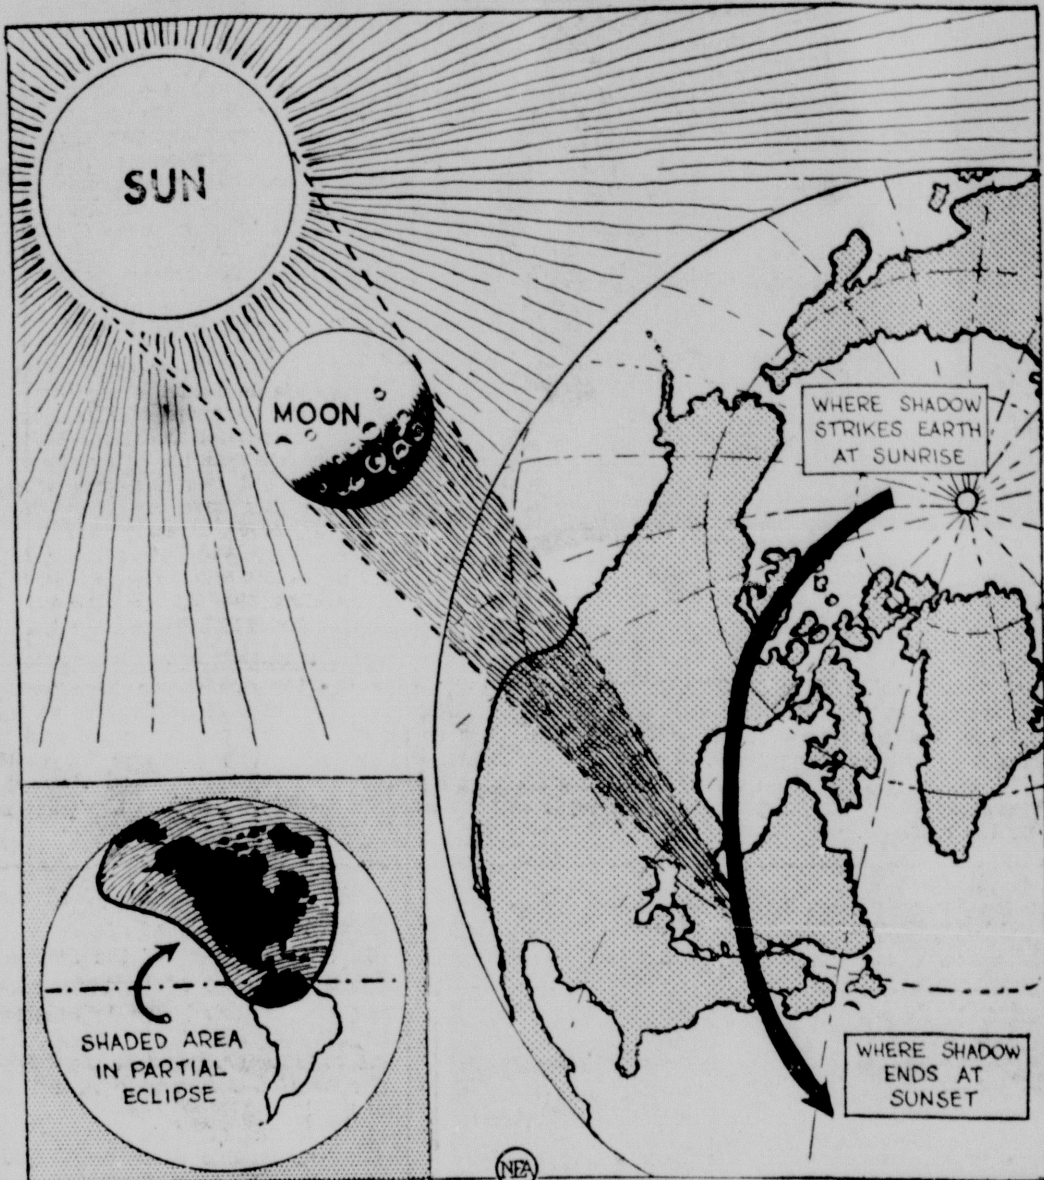

The 1932 eclipse will begin at sunrise on the Arctic Ocean. It will sweep northward to within a few hundred miles of the North Pole, then swing southeast across northern Canada, Hudson Bay, province of Quebec, enter the United States over northwestern Vermont, New Hampshire and southeastern Massachusetts. Then it will pass over the Atlantic and end in midocean at sunset.

The largest city in the path of totality — that narrow belt where the sky is completely blackened — is Montreal. Just outside the edge of the path is Boston, where the eclipse will be almost total; in New York, the sun will be 95 per cent obscured. Other cities, depending on their location, will see varying degrees of obscurity of the sun.

The actual period of totality — meaning the moment when the sun is totally obscured at a given place — is just 100 seconds. Therefore, scientists must work very fast.

But for nearly an hour before and an hour after the maximum of the eclipse is reached, there is a period resembling twilight. For example, at Portland, Maine — where the eclipse will be total — the eclipse will begin at 2:21 P. M., will reach its maximum at 3:30 P. M., and will end at 4:34 P. M.

As everybody knows, an eclipse of the sun is caused by the moon

How the eclipse of the sun on Aug. 31 will be caused by the moon's shadow is illustrated in the above diagram, which also shows the narrow belt of total eclipse that will begin in the Arctic ocean at sunrise, cross part of Canada and New England, and end in the Atlantic ocean at sunset. Areas outside the path of totality will see a partial eclipse, the sun being only partly obscured by the moon. The small chart at the lower left shows the extent to which the sun will be hidden by the moon over various cities.

Eclipse Time Table For Various Cities

The time that the eclipse of the sun can be seen in the various cities of the United States and Canada on August 31, and the extent to which the sun will be obscured by the moon, is given in local standard time in each case.

City	Pct. of Totality	Time of Maximum
Portland Me.	100	3:30 P. M.
Montreal	100	3:34 P. M.
New York	95	3:34 P. M.
Washington	89	3:35 P. M.
Cleveland	87	3:27 P. M.
Cincinnati	80	2:29 P. M.
Chicago	79	2:20 P. M.
St. Louis	71	2:25 P. M.
Kansas City	65	2:19 P. M.
New Orleans	59	2:43 P. M.
Denver	49	1:05 P. M.
San Francisco	15	1:41 P. M.

getting between the earth and the sun. The moon casts a great cone-shaped shadow on the earth. At the point of this shadow the eclipse is total; outside that comparatively narrow track it is only partial.

As the moon moves in front of the sun, the disc of the sun disappears from view. First the sun is only partly overlapped, then completely. Two or three minutes before the eclipse becomes total, the moon's shadow comes sweeping over the landscape from the west with great swiftness.

Suddenly the eclipse becomes total and the whole sky grows dark. When the moon completely blocks out the great orb, a rim of red fire appears around it. This is the upper atmosphere or chromosphere of the sun, ordinarily invisible, because of the glare of the light. Shooting out into space from the chromosphere are great tongues of crimson fire. Surrounding all this is a silvery halo, called the corona. The corona can be seen only during a total eclipse, and that is why astronomers work so feverishly to observe and photograph it while they can. During the past 50 years, they have had less than a total of 30 minutes in which to do this.

When the last trace of the sun has disappeared (in the belt of totality) and the moon's shadow has engulfed the spectator, the scene is awe-inspiring. Often the temperature drops, sometimes dew falls, strange breezes spring up, seemingly different from the breezes of normal day or night. Flowers close, birds go to rest, animals in the fields and woods seek refuge, cattle grow restless, and dogs often set up howls.

The sky is only about half as bright as that of a full moon. Often the darkness is so intense that it is impossible to tell the time by a watch. Far off on the horizon an orange afterglow effect is seen; it is the weak sunlight shining on the world outside the path of totality.

Stars appear overhead, the eclipsing moon seems to hang in the heavens like a giant cannon ball, with apparently nothing to keep it from falling on the earth.

THREE ILLINOIS COUNTIES VOTE ON NEW GOV'T.

Seek To Change To Commission Form At Nov. Election

Benton, Ill. —(AP)—Several Southern Illinois counties, now governed by boards of supervisors elected by townships, will vote on propositions at the November elections, to change from the township to the commission form of government. In three of these counties in particular, Franklin, Williamson and Saline, there promises to be considerable interest aroused on this question. Each side has many supporters and the vote now appears to be pretty evenly divided on the proposition.

Some of those favoring the proposed change, are citing Randolph county as an example of the wisdom in doing way with the cumbersome county boards of supervisors and placing the task of county government upon three commissioners.

H. S. Hicks, statistician of the Illinois Tax Commission, is quoted as stating that Randolph county has a lower per capita assessment than any other county in the state.

The figures revealed are surprising in view of the fact that the deplorable condition of Randolph county had been stressed all over Egypt.

The figures do show that Randolph has an indebtedness of $45,753.30, but they also show that the taxpayers of that county are paying less per capita for county purposes than any county in the entire state.

Assessment for county upkeep in Randolph is shown at $1.60, while in Kendall county, under township government, the tax per capita for county upkeep is $6.54.

Persons arguing for continuance of township form of government assert that the three commissioners proposed, are not apt to represent each section of the county in the desired fairness and contend that some sections will be favored at the expense of others.

The interest in this proposed change is likely to be worked up to a pitch that will assure most voters expressing their wishes on the proposed change at the November election.

SAFEST OF VAULTS BEING CONSTRUCTED

Concrete, Steel, Water Protect Bank of England.

London. —"I want the new Bank of England made so impregnable that no one could even steal so much as half a sovereign from its vaults. Even the theft of that small sum would ruin our prestige."

That statement, made by Managu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, is responsible for the mighty barricade of steel and cement being built 60 feet below the streets of London.

Norman's instructions are being carried out to the letter and the new vaults will withstand assault, fire, bombardment, dynamite and flood for the next 500 years. If any intruder even gets inside, he must face the danger of being drowned, shot or captured.

The new safes are costing $500,000 and will be the main feature of the new Bank of England building, now half finished. All work has been carried out behind high barricades.

The outer doors of the safes are described as artillery proof. The outer shells are bronze while the cores are solid blocks of 3-inch steel.

All the "strong room" system rests on a three-foot bed of concrete reinforced with hardened steel rods, and covered with a layer of steel. The sides of the vaults and safes are protected in the same way. Architects are certain that no amount of tunnelling would ever permit access from below or from the sides.

The only feasible access to the safes and vaults will be from above, through massive grille gates and steel doors, guarded, if necessary, by machine gunners. Inside these gates and doors is a deep shaft, with elevators, leading down to the level of the vaults.

In emergencies this shaft can be flooded, drowning intruders, with no danger of the water penetrating the strong rooms.

There are more strong grilles at the bottom of the shaft and the huge safe door weighs 25 tons. Not even the governor of the bank can open the safe door. The combination code of the lock is divided up, no one person knowing all of it.

Even inside the safe door there are innumerable steel doors to be opened before a single bar of gold could be removed from the rack on which it lies.

EXPOSITION IN PARIS SHOWING EXPLORATIONS

Exhibits From Africa And Asia Instructive, Interesting

Washington, D. C. — Following its famous Colonial Exposition of last year Paris this season is flocking to an exposition of the recently discovered geography of two continents, Asia and Africa.

Americans visiting France are seeing in large numbers to this exposition — that of the Citroen-Haardt Expeditions, first to cross the Sahara by motor, first through the heart and length of Africa and that just returned from making the first wheeled span of Asia through the least-known regions of the great continent. Americans have a special interest in the new exposition because it includes a photographic survey made by the American representative from the National Geographic Society which cooperated with the Trans-Asia Expedition.

Areas hitherto unvisited. The spanning of Asia by motor, accounted the outstanding exploration of 1932, entered areas never before traversed by Europeans, covered many stretches not traveled since Marco Polo's time, visited places, where wheeled vehicles hitherto were unknown, and photographed many regions, peoples and natural objects which never before had faced a camera. Invitations have been mailed to the 2,159 French members of the National Geographic Society, more than a million members, and invitations are obtainable by the Society's members in the United States and other countries who are visiting France this season.

The exposition is housed in the vast Palais des Expositions in the Place de l'Europe. It is set up in fifteen "salons" or divisions. One displays a complete Mongolian yurt, the mobile felt home of the nomads of the east Asiatic plateau, with the implements these wandering people carry from place to place, and the richly ornamented costume of a Mongol princess, costume models of Kirghiz women, various other nomad apparel, head dresses and the exotic jewelry of the desert tribes.

Archaeological collections contain many objects. In Europe, medicine exhibits bear especially upon the curious and ancient practices of Chinese healing and natural history collections include plants, insects, and animal specimens which add new data to knowledge of life forms of the continent where mankind originated.

Of great interest is the ethnographic salon where is displayed a collection of specimens from Syria, Persia, Afghanistan, India, Burma, Indo-China and Turkistan.

High in the Alps. By enjoying motors for the first time in spanning Asia, the expedition was able to drive its specially-built tractor-type cars through unexplored parts of mountain-furrowed Afghanistan; into 14,000-foot passages of the Himalayas higher than many peaks of the Alps, where no wheels ever before had turned on steep, snowbound yak trails, across the trackless wastes of the Gobi Desert and through bandit-infested wild western China. Use of the cars enabled the expedition to carry personnel and modern equipment, including color camera, short-wave radio, sound-recording apparatus and numerous scientific instruments to portray, study and collect specimens of all phases of the long hidden wonders of the Mother Continent.

To face extremes of heat and cold — ranging from 50 below zero to 115 above — clothing had to be carried which varied from suits invented by Sir Ernest Shackleton for Antarctic work to khaki safari blouses, shirts and pith helmets for protection against the blazing desert sun. These and other equipment were hauled in trailers and there was a kitchen car which could prepare food while the motor caravan was on the move, so meals might be served immediately for the halts which were frequently very brief in runs that ran as long as 16 hours a day.

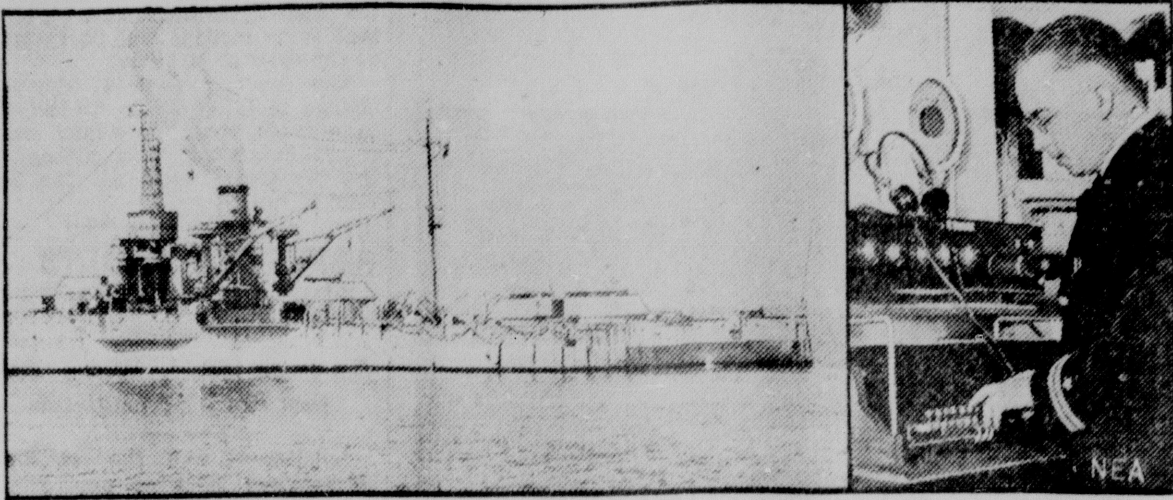

Bullet-Scarred Car. In the main hall of the exposition is the bullet-scarred car in which the leader, Georges-Marie Haardt, was riding when it was fired upon by Chinese bandits. The "Salon of Honor" is the room devoted to the martyr leader of the expedition, M. Haardt, who, after making the arduous 10,000 mile journey without the loss of a man, himself died of pneumonia, weakened by exhaustion after months of leading his motor caravan through untracked areas.

Portrayed in diorama — a mode of scenic representation devised by Daguerre — are contrasting scenes in the Gobi Desert and the ascent of the formidable Burzil Pass in the Himalaya Mountains.

The National Geographic Society's exhibit comprises a wide series of noteworthy photographs in sepia enlargement, constituting a pictorial representation of the expedition's process, taken by the Society's representative, Dr. Maynard Owen Williams, who was decorated with the Legion of Honor upon arrival in China. It also includes exhibits of the Society's various world explorations, and of its world-wide scientific and educational work. The American exhibit was assembled at the headquarters of the Society in Washington, upon invitation of M. Andre Citroen, patron of the African and Asiatic Expeditions.

In recognition of the Franco-American cooperation in the explorations the National Geographic Society recently elected the President of France an honorary member of the Society, an honor accorded fewer than a score of individuals in the history of the Society.

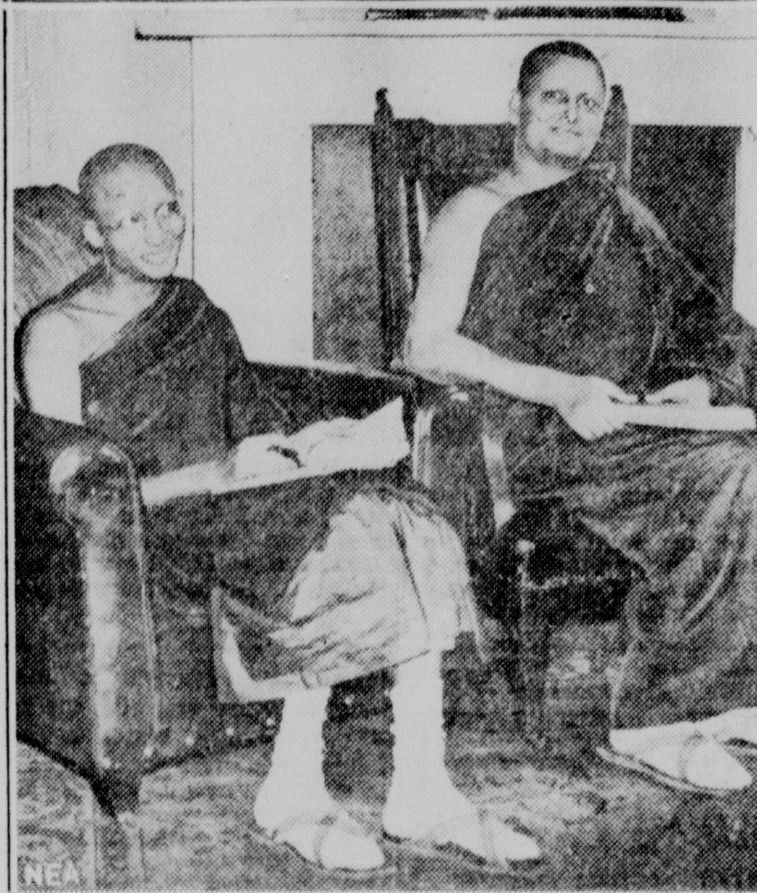

Doomed Battleship Steered by "Ghost Waves"

The most remarkable demonstration of remote control was completed when the battleship Utah, once pride of the U. S. fleet, drew up beside the mine-sweeper Robin following maneuvering off Los Angeles harbor. The Utah, shown above, was operated by Lieutenant J. B. Dow, right, from a control room in the Robin. A 10-pound radio device controlled the Utah without a man aboard, considered by naval observers to be an indication of what future wars will be like. The radio waves made the Utah do everything a ship can do except back up. The Utah is scheduled to be sent to sea as a target for the Pacific fleet and will be sunk somewhere off the Pacific Coast.

To Tell Westerners of Buddhism

You should praise your home city and boost with all your might.

A woman often blames her husband for things that go wrong about the family budget. Often it is because the wife is a little smarter than the husband. Sometimes she fears that the husband is inclined to attach too little importance to the household problems. She finds when the husband buys he uses poor judgment. He seldom investigates prices and quality and, when given a list of things needed, pays little attention and comes home with a lot of "just as good" articles that the wife did not want. On the other hand, the wife is a careful buyer. She reads the newspaper advertisements carefully. She keeps posted on prices and quality and when she does shop she buys the best at less and keeps within the family budget. When it comes to buying for the home, the average wife knows more about how to shop and save than the majority of the husbands will ever know.

What we need in this country is more sincere, able, energetic men as our lawmakers — men who are not content to follow, but men who will lead.

Every once in a while you read about the discovery of a city long buried and yet bearing unmistakable traces of an early civilization. A lot of towns are so dead that some future generation will discover them.

It is quite interesting to listen to various speakers over the radio paint in colors that would depict Washington, Lincoln or Wilson, the character of various candidates for office whose only qualifications are an itch for public office.

Talking about Bears on Wall Street, they are pikers compared to those who by economy scare talks are depressing the buying power of the people.

Well advertised merchandise is the kind that brings customers back again and again.

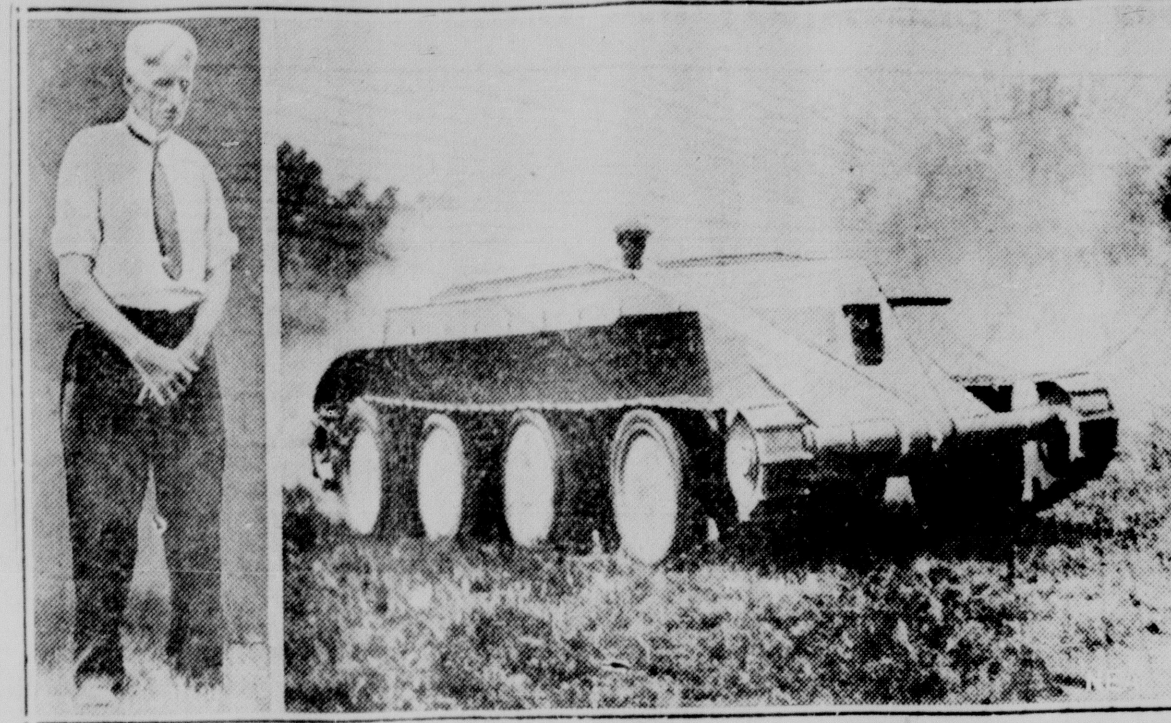

Daily Health Talk

AMEBIASIS

The ameba, an humble, single-celled living thing, is employed as a prototype to teach students the secrets of the cell basic to all human life.

The ameba used in biology classes is an innocuous creature,

If the claims of Inventor J. Walter Christie, left, are borne out, tanks like the one shown here would become the terrors of another war. For this machine, he says, not only can travel over rough country at the rate of a mile a minute, but can leap over obstacles eight feet high or ditches 30 feet wide. And it also is light enough to be carried by a bombing plane. The tank here is pictured during a demonstration for U. S. Army officers at Linden, N. J. Tested on a highway, using its wheels instead of caterpillar treads, it attained a speed of 110 miles an hour. Its jumping ability, not yet demonstrated, is said to be due to a powerful spring device under the machine.

Only Woman in Olympic City

This may hurt your pride, girls, to know that Olympic Village at Los Angeles, where the athletic teams of nations competing in the Olympics are quartered, is barred to all save one of your sex. The lone exception is Mrs. Jean Bewick, shown here. Mrs. Bewick is director of house service at the village. One of her duties is checking laundry, as she is shown doing here with Tom Law, an employee. There may be solace to the girls in the fact that it was found necessary to have one woman around, anyway.

widespread throughout the world. Certain of its relatives are, however, responsible for serious diseases affecting man.

The multifarious disease caused by the ameba is called amebiasis.

The disease is widely prevalent in Egypt, India and in tropical countries, but it is also to be found in Europe, Great Britain and the United States, particularly in the southern states.

In a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Charles F. Craig of New Orleans estimates that between six and 12 million persons in the United States are infected with this parasite.

One form of this disease is known as amebic dysentery. The symptoms differ according to the severity of the condition, frequent stools laden with mucus, and occasionally tinged with blood being common.

There may be, in addition, abdominal pains, headache, and a sense of weakness.

As a complication of this disease, the liver may become involved, the ameba causing the formation of abscesses.

Dr. Craig maintains that while we do not commonly see the acute and serious forms of amebiasis in the United States, nevertheless a large part of the population is infected.

Many of these infected individuals complain of nondescript symptoms such as weakness, headache, loss of appetite, low-grade fever and the like.

As a practical public health procedure, he recommends the routine examination of the food handlers and of those connected with the preparation and distribution of food, believing that it is through infected individuals employed in food industries that the spread of infection takes place.

PROPAGANDA IN PUBLIC SCHOOL HIT BY TEACHER

Noted Chicago University Man Speaks Out Openly

Prof. Paul Shorey of the University of Chicago, in an interview with James O'Donnell Bennett of the Chicago Tribune on his 75th birthday, said the following concerning propaganda in the public schools and colleges of the country.

"What, in your opinion, Mr. Shorey, are the outstanding weaknesses that threaten us?"

"Governmental extravagance, the power of organized minorities, and the lack of backbone and intelligence in our governing representatives."

"And the cure?"

"Where cure must begin. The cure should begin in the schools. I should insist first upon the higher training of teachers and I should forbid all revolutionary propaganda in the schools and only allow habitual propaganda of the elementary fundamentals of law, order, morals, and American constitutional government. And I shouldn't call that propaganda, but training. In other words, don't think a teacher in the elementary public schools has a right to inculcate opinions outside his own subject or opinions subversive of the existing order. If he wants to do that he should do it somewhere else. If he is hired to teach arithmetic, that gives him no right to make propaganda for his own favorite theories. But I would not limit his freedom of speech. I would only ask him to hire a hall."

In asking a sort of random question I touched off fireworks. That question was: "From Plato's point of view is mankind any happier because of the automobile?"

The venerable man registered indignation, saying: "That is doubtful. Consider, for example, how incredibly monstrous is the way we permit the killing of people in Chicago by the auto. A thousand victims a year. Any measures to stop it would be justifiable. It is incredibly callous, especially in contrast to the reluctance we show to punish murderers. We sentimentalize over them and yet butcher a thousand a year of innocents in our streets. It is a shame of Chicago."

Plato's sense of justice and his ideal of a well ordered society would be outraged by it."

Kits

By TYRA L. FULLER

KITS was so sweet! For the first time in his life Jim Madden's house seemed like home to him. It was warm with her playful presence.

Jim loved her. It had been a mutual case of love at first sight! With the coming of Kits, Jim—for almost a decade known as "Hat-ton's hard-boiled bachelor"—deserted his long-time pals. No longer was he seen nightly at the Croqui nole club.

His cronies missed him. They resented his desertion and muttered darkly of "a rug, a bone and a hank of hair." Bill Hannaway, voiced everybody's opinion when he vowed that he never would have believed that "Jim would go sentimental over a d—n ornery female."

No, Jim had always been quite the opposite to sentimental. "Hard-boiled" was the word. And no wonder. He'd lost both mother and father when he was just a baby. He'd been dragged up (there's no other term for it) for nine years by a virago aunt, and then, having committed some slight offense and fearing the dire results, he had run away.

To be exact, the young Jim had climbed into an empty freight car, had cried himself to sleep.

He emerged from the freight car into a little backwoods town where he either could not, or would not answer any questions.

As no one knew where to ship him, he became a town charge and young Jim found out the meaning of hard work.

He remained long enough to learn to look out for himself, hopped another freight and was carried some hundreds of miles, north by west. Jim was now sixteen and quite independent, for, by dint of skimping and hoarding, he had managed to amass the vast sum of $13.75.

Once again Jim's destination was decided by fate. He awoke on the second morning to find his car sidetracked near a pleasant little town of three or four hundred souls. The name of the town was Hattton, he learned, and when he strolled into the general store to buy some supplies—to show he was no tramp—he gave his own name as Marden.

He was looking for a job. Jim confided to the storekeeper, a kindly soul who apparently knew everything, and everybody for miles around. Old Tom Cragge, red-cheeked, roly-poly, with a heart as big as his belly—which was saying something—told Jim the farmers all about there were looking for sturdy, capable hands.

"You won't have no trouble finding a job, son," he said, "and if you can't land one, come back and old Tom Cragge'll set you to work."

The first real kindness he had had ever met! No wonder old Cragge came to mean father, mother and family to Jim Marden, and his death some years later was tragedy to the orphan boy, just growing into young manhood.

When Tom Cragge died he left Jim a small house with an acre of land, two, three miles out of Hattton. He left him some money, too, with directions to "furnish the house, and make a home."

Jim followed instructions conscientiously. He furnished the old place after a fashion. He slept there, and got his own breakfasts.

Jim was going on thirty when Kits came into his life. He fell for the little thing right away. And when she showed she was willing to come and share his small house with him, Jim's joy knew no bounds.

Then the place blossomed. It became livable.

It was Jim's happiness to get her anything and everything she wanted. Hadn't she given him—home!

Jim was in the general store—now run by a distant relative of the late Tom Cragge—running an eye over his penciled list of wanted supplies. Cream . . . lard (Kits loved lard) and bacon . . . matches, kindling . . . M-m-m . . .

"Loaf of bread and some coffee," he told the storekeeper, "and I'll be going along."

"Boys are havin' a little poker game tonight," volunteered the man behind the counter. "Guess they'd like to have you sit in."

But Jim was in a hurry, and said no. He had to get home. Home!

What was Kits doing, he wondered as he sped along in his old liver. How would she meet him tonight? (That was one of Kits' charms. Sometimes she would come down the path to meet him. Sometimes she would hide behind the kitchen door and jump out at him. Sometimes he would have to go through the house calling her name, before she would show herself at all. Little tease!)

Kits wasn't hiding tonight. Jim had barely opened the door and dropped his bundles on the kitchen table, when she flung herself into his arms with a low cry of rapture. Silky head against his breast . . . jade-green eyes drowning in his own . . . her soft body a-tremble as she crooned her little song to him. Jim's arms tightened about her tenderly. His lovely Kits . . . his beautiful golden Persian!

The kitten clung to him, purring her joy and contentment.

Persian Lamb Coats
On Hoof To Be Seen

Springfield, Ill. —(AP)—"Persian Lamb" coats, on the hoof, will be on exhibition, for the first time, in the sheep pavilion at the Illinois State Fair, according to an announcement made today by the management of the sheep department.

Major John MacQueen, of Kirkland, fair board member in charge of the sheep department, and the sheep show superintendent, Frank S. Springer, of Springfield, have reported that a number of Karakul sheep and lambs are listed among the list of more than 1,000 prize specimens entered.

The Karakul breed of sheep, according to the men who will conduct this show, is a comparatively recent importation into America from Bokhara, where it has been developed from time immemorial. The lambskins, principal product of the highly valued Karakul flocks, are known commercially as Persian lamb. Broadtail and Karakul, which when fashioned into ladies' coats, demand prices that, if paid direct to sheep breeders, would end the agricultural depression.

TREASURES OF ANTIOCH HAVE BEEN REVEALED

Explorers Tell Of Making Discoveries In "Glorious" City

Washington, D. C. —Antioch, which has yielded many rich treasures of antiquity, again is the scene of explorations which recently uncovered a picture gallery in the form of a paneled mosaic floor.

Modern Antioch, a drab city of 30,000 inhabitants, lying about 15 miles up the Orontes River from the Mediterranean, is a mere shadow of the gay city that once was the capital of the great empire of Seleucus Nicator, favorite of Alexander the Great, and later capital of the Roman Empire in the Orient," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Eagle Chose Site

"Traditionally, Antioch owes its location to the flight of an eagle. Antiochia, built in 307 B. C., a few miles north of Antioch, was planned to be the fountainhead of government, commerce and industry in the Near East. While Seleucus was offering sacrifices at an altar in the city, an eagle swooped down, caught a piece of meat from the altar, and flew to the banks of the Orontes River. Seleucus interpreted the eagle's act as an omen that the gods wished him to be found a capital on the river. Six years later Antiochia was destroyed and Antioch rose to become, in time, the Gate of the East and third city in the Roman Empire.

"Antioch was laid out in checkerboard fashion with its main streets ran parallel or at right angles. An eighty-foot wall, broad enough at the top for four horses to be driven abreast, surrounded it.

Bne Hur Drove Chariot There

"The outstanding feature of the new city was the four-mile main street that connected the east and west gates. On each side rose double rows of lofty marble columns between which Ben Hur drove his chariot and Caesar paraded in triumph. Flanking the street was a marble-paved, covered promenade adorned with statues and carvings in marble and bronze. Beyond the promenades rose the handsome facades of government buildings.

"At night the main street was a great white way. The rumble of chariot wheels and clatter of horses' hoofs mingled with the gay laughter of the promenaders and merry-makers who thronged the numerous baths near-by. These were fed through large aqueducts from the surrounding hills. The main street was intersected midtown by another gay, marble-columned street.

Beautiful Suburbs

"Outside the eastern gate King Herod of the Jews built a continuation of the main street to resemble the wall-inclosed thoroughfare. Beyond the west gate was the suburb, Heraclea. Its main road flanked with gardens surrounding magnificent villas of the Antioch nobility. Six miles from the city lay the Valley of Daphne with its rich gardens and ornate temples. "Despite its gayety, however, Antioch's path was often strewn with sorrow. Its walls were frequently pounded by jealous enemies. In 538 A. D. the Persians entered the city, massacred many of its inhabitants, set fire to its buildings and left with statues, beautiful marbles and treasures of gold and silver quakes also wrecked the city from time to time. One chronicler reports that during one severe shock, more than 250,000 inhabitants were killed by falling walls.

"After each catastrophe, Antioch rebuilt. While the columned highways, walls, gates and handsome buildings are memories, a large part of the modern city is built of stones that once witnessed the processions and chariot races of 'Antioch the Glorious.'

"Antioch also has been succeeded commercially by Aleppo. Today its largest industries are shoe and soap making and hide tanning. Near by, corn, cotton and to tobacco are grown, and licorice root is produced for export to the United States where it is largely used in the manufacture of plug tobacco."

Took Up Golf, Now
He Is In Trouble

Springfield, Ill. —(AP)— Judge A. N. Tolliver of Louisville, an Assistant Attorney General, took up golf the other day at the age of 61 and thereby borrowed some trouble.

He made the Old Salem nine hole course in 96 to beat a colleague, J. J. Neiger, for the beginning championship of the Attorney General's office.

"What are you doing about it?" he was asked.

"I'm still recuperating from the last one," he groaned.

Many Horses Will Be At State Fair

Springfield, Ill. —(AP)—No less than 125, and probably about 126 running horses will ship to Springfield this week to take part in the opening day's races at the Illinois State Fair.

Walter O. Ireland, of Peoria, speed superintendent of the fair, placed this figure on the number of thoroughbreds that will be here to face the barrier Saturday in the afternoon program.

From the states of Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Indiana and Kentucky, running horse men who have their strings campaigning on the half mile tracks have been in communication with the state fair officials, for entry blanks and stall reservations.

The afternoon, from Monday to Friday, two running races are listed along with the Grand Circuit harness races, and for the closing day, Saturday, August 27, another afternoon of "The Sport of Kings", is scheduled, with the third running of the Governor's Derby, at 1 1/16 miles, as the feature attraction.

Entries for the derby are in the hands of turf officials at Chicago. They have reported that a number of the stables now racing at Chicago will send their crack three-year-olds to Springfield. Several outstanding colts from other sections of the country are also expected to enter.

Homing pigeons, unless trained for night flying, roost at night wherever darkness overtakes them. The birds trained by the French for secret night work were kept in darkened rooms from the moment of hatching, and were fed by the light of red lamps. When they learned to fly, they underwent systematic training of homing to a red light. Although results were far from satisfactory, the American army was preparing to teach night flying to some of its pigeons at the time the armistice came.

By MARY CARSON

"BY JOVE! What a stunning-looking girl!"

David Thorndyke followed the direction of his friend Halliday's eyes—across the spacious dining room of Park avenue's most famous hostelry. He gave a start.

"What's the matter?" said Bob Halliday. "Know the fair dame?"

"I do and I don't," replied David. "Meaning?"

"I saw her in New Orleans two years ago, but never met her."

"Want to spout out the story? I'm a good listener. Besides"—laughing—"the lady intrigues me."

Thorndyke gave a short grunt. "That had already, is it?"

Halliday nodded. "You seem to forget I've been away for three years. I'm in earnest—more than you think. Who is she?"

"Betty Seton—rich—New Orleans—malden aunt in the office. That enough?"

"Certainly not. I want to know everything. Who's the man with her?"

"Looking over"—There's Kitty Talbot now talking to her. If you don't loosen up, Davy, I'll importune the garrulous Kitty."

"Zuelos is the man with her—Greek—painted her portrait. 'Spring'—he calls it. Made a sensation—Paris Salon and all that."

Halliday jerked out: "Interested. I'd like to bash his head in."

"Hold on, Sonny," David regarded his young friend quizzically. "Don't get so violent. Calm down. Nothing the matter with the Greek. In fact, he's the hero of the piece. Saved the fair lady's life when her weak-kneed fiancé failed to look after her properly."

"So there was a fiancé, was there?"

"To be sure," replied David. "Tall and slender with poetic dark eyes. Disappeared shortly after."

"After what?"

"After the attempted murder."

Halliday straightened up. "Yes?"

"Look here," said David suddenly. "Are you after a big scoop, or is it sincere interest?"

"Really interested, Davy. Honest Injun. Not a word goes in my column."

"All right then. Remember by-gones are by-gones."

Halliday bobbed his head.

"Because," continued David, "that little girl over there has had enough. I don't intend resurrecting unpleasantness for the benefit of a curious public. I know you newspaper men. Always poking your noses in other people's business."

Halliday sighed. "All right, Davy. Tell me all about the lady."

"It was at La Parisienne—New Orleans's famous night club. The socially elite were greatly in evidence that night."

"We hadn't been there long when Betty Seton walked in with her fiancé. For a hushed moment the chattering ceased; then the huge crowd burst into prolonged applause. I never saw such an ovation, except possibly for a popular diva."

"Betty smilingly bowed her acknowledgments."

David pressed his lips together. "But every ointment has its fly. There happened to be a black-browed hostess in the background. Lovely herself in a voluptuous way, a certain Mme. Julie from Valence. She resented all this adulation."

"Besides; the blond beauty's fiancé had been quite amorous. Julie's direction before Betty's return from school—so the De Tousees told me—and in spite of the sultry quality of the attachment, it had leaked out. Every one seemed to know it except Betty herself."

"Be that as it may, this Greek painter over there was seated near Betty's table on this particular occasion. Down in the Crescent city for local color, Betty's classic lines had bewitched him. Foreigner that he was, he made no secret of his adoring."

Halliday's hand on the white cloth—clenched.

"Mme. Julie had a custom of passing among her guests, handing each a flower. That night it was camellias."

"Yes?" Halliday's eyes were glued on David's.

"Betty's camellia was struck to the floor by Zuelos before Mme. Julie's hand touch the outstretched fingers of her hated rival."

"What was it?" Halliday whispered hoarsely.

"Poison," Thorndyke replied.

"Poison?" echoed Halliday incredulously.

"Yes. Poison—ring. Zuelos saw Mme. Julie press the hidden spring. He had made a study of antique jewels. This ring, its bezel an enormous emerald, aroused his curiosity."

"What did they do with Julie?"

"Deported. Spain. Life imprisonment."

Silence a moment. Outside—New York—pulsing—throbbing.

"Betty's not in love with this Greek, is she, Davy?"

"Don't ask me, dear boy. All rules of romance point that way," said Dave. "What you going to do about it, Bob?"

Halliday rose. "I'm going to take my first step now. Kitty Talbot'll present me."

EUROPE APPLAUDS THE TWINKLING FEET OF AMERICAN DANCERS

FOREIGN NATIONS WHICH ONCE SENT STARS TO U. S. NOW IMPORT OUR PERFORMERS

By HELEN WELSHIMER (NEA Service Writer)

New York —Dancers aren't taking their steps in the same direction any longer. They used to turn them across the ocean from Europe to America.

Now America dances to her own tunes and Europe sends for American stars.

At least, two American girls have just come home with the plaudits of foreign countries ringing in their ears.

Hiss Harriet Hootor, generally conceded to be the queen of the American ballerinas, and Miss Myra Kinch, one of America's leading dramatic dancers, both were asked to come to the main, leading theaters abroad to be featured in their dances.

Both Learned Dancing Here

Both are typical American girls. Neither one has ever studied outside of America. Yet Miss Hootor won the applause of Great Britain and Miss Kinch had Germany singing her praises.

Miss Hootor returned to America because the late Flo Ziegfeld asked her to sign no contracts until she had talked with him. And just recently she was signed to appear in the next edition of Earl Carroll's "Vanities."

Miss Kinch came back to star in the new Opera Theater at Griffith Park, while the Olympic games are in process.

"England still takes the ballet seriously," Miss Hootor says. "It's competing with Russia. I found the British audiences very appreciative. They are more demonstrative than American audiences. Just the same I would rather dance in America."

Posed for Distinguished Artist

Miss Hootor, who has dark eyes and golden hair, posed for Jacob Epstein, famous sculptor, and Olive Snell while abroad.

"I like the concert stage best," she says. "It allows greater freedom for interpretation of a role."

Miss Kinch, whose home is in Los Angeles and who, like Miss Hootor, had never been abroad, until she was signed up to appear at a Max Reinhardt theater in Berlin, also found foreign audiences demonstrative. And she liked it, too. But she likes dancing at home better than abroad. Her eyes are blue and her hair is a dark red.

HARRIET HOOTOR (LEFT) AND MYRA KINCH

After the show all of the people come rushing to the front of the stage to show their appreciation," she says. "I enjoyed it. I want to dance in Europe again."

Foreign Audiences Unresentful

Both of the American dancers who were summoned to Europe in dancers were once brought to America, were afraid at first that there might be resentment against them. There wasn't.

"I danced and everyone was lovely," each girl says.

They designed their own costumes. Each has another interest, too. Miss Hootor's is ping pong. She wants to excel in it. Miss Kinch spends her extra time in drawing, just because she likes it.

We got stuck up and hifalutin. We even took down the old family bed and bought a set of twin beds—on the installment plan.

When I would come home at night, if my wife was at home, she would already be in her bed and I have become acquainted with folks who have been living next door to me for three years. I am following the Biblical admonition, "Love your neighbors." One of my neighbors has one of the best looking wives I have ever seen. She is a dandy. I am getting acquainted with my neighbors and learning to love them.

Three years ago I ordered my clothes from a merchant tailor—two and three suits at a time. All my clothes were good ones. I was always dressed up. But now, I haven't bought a suit of clothes in two years. I am mighty proud of my Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes. When I dress up, I am dressed up, and I don't mean maybe. I like the depression.

It's great to drop into a store and feel that you can spend an hour or two or three or a half a day just visiting and not feel that you are wasting valuable time. I like the depression.

I am getting acquainted with my neighbors. In the last six months I trips and we stay as long as we want to. The whole outfit could leave the office now and it wouldn't make any difference.

I like the depression. I have time to visit my friends, to make new ones. Two years ago when I went to a neighboring town, I always stayed at a hotel. Now I go with my friends, stay all night and enjoy home-coming. I have even spent the week end with some of the boys who have been kind enough to invite me.

PEIPING FEARS AN INVASION BY JAPANESE ARMY

A New War Threatens In China: City Is Of Military Import

By NEA Service
Peiping—ancient China's gateway between the mountains and the sea from whose imperial palaces centuries came edicts that made nearly one-fourth of the human race tremble and obey—is in the news again, as an invasion by the Japanese threatens.

Rightfully perhaps, it is called "one of the wonder cities of the world." But, in a modern sense, this description is hardly accurate.
Only the crumbling grandeur of the long dead centuries that saw its mighty power remains; the great palaces from which emperors reigned in by-gone eras are now mere museums, housing their priceless treasures of carved jade and ivory, bronzes 25 centuries old and Chinese painting drawn by hands that wielded the brush before the days of Christ.

Decadent since the revolution that swept the emperors from power when the Chinese Republic was established in 1911, Peiping has lost even more since the republic transferred the nation's capital to Nanking in 1928. In the past few years its population has dropped from nearly a million and a quarter to less than a million.

Protected by Great Wall

Northwest of the ancient city runs the Great Wall, erected 200 years before Christ to keep out the barbarian hordes. For 1500 miles this wall winds its way, like a sin-uous Chinese dragon, over mountains, valleys and rivers. It is 20 feet in height and every few miles throughout its entire distance there are watch towers.

Reminiscent of centuries long dead, Peiping is today a city of barbaric splendor, faded but still existent. The sun glistens on the flat yellow rooms of its one-story buildings, its streets team with camels, heavily-laden burros and men in the curious garb of the ancient world, its palaces draw their quota of curious tourists.

Surrounding the city is a high wall and within the city is another wall—purple in color—which girdles the nest of ancient palaces.
Here is the Temple of Heaven and nearby its altar of white marble (as big as a modern football stadium) where, before the advent of the republic, emperors went annually to prostrate themselves in supplication to heaven for a prosperous new year in a brilliant oriental ceremony.

Of Military Importance Here, too, was the world's oldest observatory, founded by Kublai Khan in the 13th century. When Peiping was looted after the Boxer revolution in 1900 some of these priceless instruments were seized by the Germans and taken to the imperial gardens at Potsdam. In World Flyers Come Back Smiling

smiling their happiness to be back in the U. S. as the S. S. Leviathan docked at New York City. When they roared away from Manhattan July 5, they expected to be gone only a week and to encompass the world in that time. But after crossing the Atlantic and reaching Berlin in record time, their plans went haywire in a peat bog near Minsk, Russia, where their plane was wrecked. They hope to try again.

PREVENTION OF FIRES OBJECT OF WEEK OCT. 9

Gov. Emmerson Has Issued Proclamation
For Observance
Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—A proclamation was issued by Governor Emmerson calling for general observance of "Fire Prevention Week"
October 9 to 15.
It was as follows:
"The estimated fire loss in the nation last year was $464,633,265 and 10,000 lives. The loss in Illinois as compiled from reporting officials was $16,935,749. This is too high a price to pay for carelessness, which is the underlying cause of 75 to 90 per cent of all fires.
"Control of fire waste is one of the most important problems state and nation in normal times. In times of economic stress the problem is more difficult because expenditures for upkeep and improvement are largely deferred, pending "better times." This increases fire hazards materially and calls for exercise of more vigilance against fire."
"Every fire" the Governor's statement continued, "is the possible starting point of a conflagration and jeopardizes human life as well.
Every individual can keep premises free from rubbish and waste com-

City Is Centuries Old

There was a city on the site of Peiping 1200 years before Christ.
It first became the capital of the kingdom of Yau. In 986 it was captured by the Tartars. The Chinese took it again about 1200, but a century later the Tartars recaptured it.
Ghengis Khan, famed Mongol conqueror, took the city in his day and his equally famous grandson, Kublai Khan, rebuilt it and made it his capital. The came the Ming dynasty, next the Manchus and lastly the republic. The latter moved the capital to Nanking and Peiping's ancient glory faded.

bustle material and can exercise care where danger of fire is involved. Officials bodies, especially school and hospital boards, should require this from employees.

"Even in difficult financial times such serious hazards as defective flues and dangerous wooden shingle roofs should not be tolerated.
Those who are in position to do so should keep up formal repairs and make contemplated improvements, not only for the benefit of their property, but as a matter of stimulating employment.

"I urge that local officials, Chambers of Commerce, and civic organizations cooperate to arouse a greater interest in the citizens of their communities for fire prevention and Family Of Foxes Found At Morrison

Morrison, Ill.—(AP)—The fox family on Omar Richardson's farm isn't going to have any more chicken dinners.

all. They picked the farm-yard for their romping grounds and Richardson followed them to the den. It was lined with chicken feathers. Richardson is getting

CITIES BEHIND IN SANITATION, BRADLEY FINDS

Head Of Izaak Walton League Of America
Conducts Survey

"Despite America's leadership in sanitation, only 56 of 1378 cities recently investigated have adequate facilities for disposing of their sewage," according to Dr.
Preston Bradley, president of the Izaak Walton League of America, who is urging construction of sewerage works as a means of expediting nation-wide trade recovery.

"It is a surprising fact," Dr. Bradley asserted, "that even in this enlightened age, more than 90 per cent of our cities dump their raw sewage into streams and lakes with little thought of the damage that it does. This practice is destroying all forms of aquatic life, and is making the waterways unfit for their most important use as a source of domestic water supply. Communities which take their water from the streams and lakes must employ expensive equipment for filtration and chemical treatment to make it usable.

"In times of low water level such as we have experienced during the past few summers, the pollution in many waterways is so great that purification facilities are overtaxed. In many localities the water can no longer be made safe for drinking by ordinary filtration methods. More than 240 outbreaks of typhoid fever and other waterborne diseases in American communities between 1920 and 1930 testify to the seriousness of the situation.

"Municipalities faced with an unemployment problem can find no better solution than to put men at work building needed sewers and treatment plants," Dr. Bradley pointed out. "It is generally agreed that no other type of public construction goes so far in creating

Governor Able To Transfer Convicts

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—If dis-ipline demands it, a prisoner may be transferred from one state prison to another, Attorney General Carlstrom today advised State's Attorney M. M. Hart of Benton, Ill.
The transfer, however, must have the approval of the Governor, Carlstrom said. Hart requested the opinion on a projected removal of an inmate of the Southern Illinois penitentiary at Menard to the Joliet penitentiary.
